Introduction

Chapter I, Desertam Indefensamque, was a memorandum sent to Occult colleagues by the Oxfordshire-based Sapphic group the TWS Nexion at the beginning of November 2021. It led to the discussions recounted in the section titled The Esoteric Philosophy And Seven Fold Way Of Anton Long - A Debate in chapter II, A New Beginning, the gist of which discussions concerned the anarchist/nihilist O9A principle of the 'authority of individual judgement' and what had recently resulted from that principle: such as the Black Propaganda of a fake American O9A nexion run by an FBI agent provocateur. {1}

The TWS Nexion was of the view that the principle of the 'authority of individual judgement' - described in chapter III, Paradox Of The O9A Authority Of Individual Judgment, whose consequences are described in the Debate section of chapter II - were on balance detrimental to the quest for Lapis Philosophicus. Hence their reformation as The Seven Oxonians and their development of a new esoteric tradition which they termed The Hebdonian Way, described in detail in chapter IV, The Sevenfold Seeking And Noesis Of The Hebdonian Way.

Among the aspects of Longusian Occultism {2} that the developers of the new esoteric tradition considered to be, based on their experience and learning, unnecessary for or no longer relevant in a hermetic pursuit of Lapis Philosophicus were:

- (i) the japes, deceptions, and the trickery presenced by Anton Long's Labyrinthos Mythologicus;
- (ii) Occult rituals and ceremonies in general, and all types of sorcery;
- (iii) Insight Roles;
- (iv) the causal abstractions and dialectic involved in supporting or using for whatever reason political forms such as National Socialism;
- (v) Satanism, however defined or presenced;
- (vi) the complexity of Anton Long's labyrinthine esoteric philosophy;
- (vii) the goal of seeking to presence a New Aeon and to change what-is - such as society or societies - by any means including but not limited to means which are or which can be classified as political, religious, ideological, social, mythological or Occult.

As noted in chapter IV, The Sevenfold Seeking And Noesis Of The Hebdonian Way, it is:

"a modern hermetic ἐπιστήμη, épistémé: a means to change the φύσις, physis - the character/nature /perception - of an individual by practical means involving a seeking or quest."

They thus returned to the fundamentals of Hermetic philosophy as described in the tractates of the ancient Corpus Hermeticum, with chapters V and VI - Julius Evola, The Seven Fold Way, And The Corpus Hermeticism and A Review of Myatt's The Divine Pymander - providing an overview of that Corpus.

Hence this work presents the new esoteric tradition in detail as well as the background to its development involving as that did ceasing to publicly defend or explain Longusian Occultism because it had been abandoned in favour of The Hebdonian Way.

{1} The Black Propaganda of that fake American O9A nexion is described in O9A: The Occult Phantom Menace, available at <https://archive.org/download/o-9-a-occult-menace/o9a-occult-menace-v3.pdf>

Black Propaganda is material which does not appear to be propaganda, whose real origins are concealed, which is misleading or designed to discredit and which gives the impression it has been produced/circulated by a particular person or persons or by a particular group/organization or by a State-entity. Black propaganda was used by Allied governments during the First and Second World Wars as well as during the 'Cold War', and also between the 1950s and 1970s by the FBI as part of a Counter Intelligence Program to discredit domestic American groups and individuals including the Ku Klux Klan, qv. <https://web.archive.org/web/20120910071729/http://www.icdc.com/~paulwolf/cointelpro/cointel.htm>

{2} The term 'Longusian Occultism/tradition' - Longusian from the Latin for "long" - refers to (i) the esoteric philosophy and praxes of the pseudonymous Anton Long promulgated between 1976 and 2012, and (ii) developments and variations of that esoteric philosophy by its adherents, and which tradition is manifest under the appellations 'Order of Nine Angles', ONA, and O9A. ### The Esoteric Philosophy And Seven Fold Way Of Anton Long - A Debate

Desertam Indefensamque? There has been much private debate in recent months among some Adepts of the esoteric tradition developed by the pseudonymous Anton Long, and known among those Adepts by the appellation Order of Nine Angles<sup>1</sup>, as to whether or not and in public that tradition should be abandoned and undefended by them given their own pathei-mathos and the torrent of accusations levelled since 2018 against what others have described as a group or organization named "the order of nine angles" or "O9A".

These accusations were propagated by antifascist groups and individuals, by some politicians, and by some journalists, and have resulted in requests by such groups and such politicians that the British government proscribe the "O9A" because they believe it to be a group or organization which incites terrorism, which has members convicted of terrorism offences, and which is also alleged to incite such dishonourable things as rape, paedophilia, and misogyny.

These Adepts of that esoteric tradition, who are primarily based in the United Kingdom, are of the opinion that such accusations were the result of a disinformation campaign by an American agent provocateur paid by the FBI<sup>2</sup> and which disinformation was believed by antifascist groups and individuals, by some politicians, and by some journalists who often in a propagandistic manner embellished such disinformation and who either did not bother to do their own research using primary sources such as the writings of Anton Long, or having done some minimal research ignored what was written in favour of their own prejudicial assumptions about that esoteric tradition, one of which was that the appellation Order of Nine Angles referred to a group or organization with members.

The debate among the Adepts did not concern such requests for a group called by such propagandists the Order of Nine Angles to be proscribed, since those Adepts were of the opinion: (i) that the O9A was a philosophy, not a group with members and which philosophy or esoteric tradition was manifest, presenced, in a practical way by the individualistic quest for Lapis Philosophicus - for wisdom<sup>3</sup> - and described by Anton Long's Seven Fold Way, and (ii) that the esoteric tradition with its Seven Fold Way could only be realistically taught, and learnt, in private as had occurred since the 1980s. This generational, individual, mostly covert transmission meant that attempts to declare the O9A illegal, a terrorist group, and ban its literature were irrelevant, as would be making membership a criminal offence.

Instead, the debate concerned three related matters.

1. One of the foundations of the esoteric philosophy devised by Anton Long was and is its anarchical - or as some would write and say its nihilistic - principle of the authority of individual judgment<sup>4</sup> which in practice means that anyone is free to interpret that philosophy and implement it in their own individual way and thus devise their own praxis or praxes to implement or presence it. Deriving from that foundational principle is the fact that there is not, never has been, and cannot be any leader and thus no one who can make any rules or state what is the correct, authorized, interpretation or implementation, not even Anton Long himself. The principle also means one other thing: that there is not and cannot be some Adept, some cabal or some "inner circle of Adepts" who can make rules or state what is the correct, authorized, interpretation or implementation.

Hence there is no "official" - correct - interpretation of Anton Long's philosophy and no "official" - correct, authorized - implementation or praxis of that philosophy. No official, authorized nexions, cells, temples, or chapters.<sup>5</sup> No official, authorized statements or press releases; no official, authorized book(s), treatise(s), or texts; and in this internet age, no official, authorized, websites, blogs, zines, social media accounts, or whatever.

While there have been, in the past two years or so, many published texts, essays and even books by various Adepts to explain that the disinformation concocted by an FBI-paid agent provocateur, as well as the accusations and claims made regarding Anton Long's philosophy, are false, malicious, and unsupported by Anton Long's writings,<sup>6</sup> these explanations - because of the principle of the authority of individual judgment - have no ultimate authority and therefore can be judged by both supporters and opponents of Anton Long's philosophy as just a particular interpretation of that philosophy.

The consensus was that an insider, an adept, interpretation of that philosophy is:

- (i) that the appellation Order of Nine Angles refers to an esoteric tradition, a philosophy, which has over decades become a sub-culture which individuals can identify with, and does not refer to a group or organization which has or which recruits members;
- (ii) that since it is a philosophy it has no leader or leaders;
- (iii) that implicit in that philosophy and in the writings of Anton Long are certain ethical boundaries;<sup>7</sup>
- (iv) that the actions and beliefs and attitudes of some of those who according to antifascists and others may have been influenced by Anton Long's philosophy are dishonourable and incompatible with that philosophy.

2. That while over the past forty years the anarchic-nihilistic principle of the authority of individual judgment has contributed to the transmission of Anton Long's esoteric philosophy mainly in the lands of the West but also in some non-Western lands, and led to the creation of nexions, cells, temples, and chapters around the world describing themselves as "O9A", it has also contributed to diverse interpretations of Anton Long's philosophy and to diverse practical implementations of that philosophy, with some nexions producing their own literature about their interpretation and practical implementation of that philosophy.

This has led to the situation that now exists in regard to (a) what-is and what-is-not "O9A" philosophy and praxis, (b) who is and who is not "O9A", and (c) to various interpretations and mis-interpretations of or disinformation about the "O9A" influencing certain individuals to do deeds which the Adept interpretation of Anton Long's philosophy describes as dishonourable and incompatible with that philosophy.

3. The matter of the collective pathei-mathos, the learning from experience, which, for those Adepts, resulted from their individual quests for Lapis Philosophicus by means of Anton Long's Seven Fold Way. When compared, it was obvious, as Anton Long himself predicted,<sup>8</sup> that it changed their perception of many aspects of Anton Long's philosophy including the practices of the Seven Fold Way with all but one of the Adepts regarding many of those aspects as unnecessary for or incompatible with or no longer relevant in respect of an individual esoteric quest for Lapis Philosophicus.

Among such aspects discovered by pathei-mathos to be unnecessary, incompatible, or no longer relevant were:

- (i) the games, deceptions, and the trickery presenced by Anton Long's Labyrinthos Mythologicus;
- (ii) Occult rituals and ceremonies in general, and all types of sorcery;
- (iii) Insight Roles;
- (iv) the causal abstractions and dialectic involved in supporting or using for whatever reason political forms such as National Socialism;
- (v) Satanism, however defined or presenced;
- (vi) the complexity of Anton Long's labyrinthine esoteric philosophy;
- (vii) the goal of seeking to presence a New Aeon and to change what-is - such as society or societies - by any means including but not limited to means which are or which can be classified as political, religious, ideological, social, mythological or Occult.

The consensus was that a modern individual quest, the ἄνοδος, for Lapis Philosophicus is an interior one concerned with the individual learning through a non-political, non-religious, way by various and mostly practical experiences some of which involve an isolation from the world, physical and intellectual challenges, and a period or periods of contemplation of Nature by a living in a rural environment for a certain period or periods.

The conclusion reached as a result of the debate, with one dissenter, was that in respect of Anton Long's labyrinthine esoteric philosophy and his Seven Fold Way, and with the foundational principle of the authority of individual judgement meaning that their agreed interpretation has no authority whatsoever: Desertam Indefensamque, and thus that they should present overtly, or covertly and individually, a new ἄνοδος for Lapis Philosophicus derived from their own or their collective pathei-mathos devoid of what was enumerated above as unnecessary, incompatible, or no longer relevant for such a modern and mystical quest.

3) As described in The Hebdonian Way, <https://sevenoxonians.files.wordpress.com/2021/11/hebdonian-way-rs.pdf>

{begin quote}

Lapis Philosophicus refers to that which is sought by means of an individual hermetic (esoteric, alchemical) quest: which is Wisdom, whereby Wisdom is meant a balanced, rational, personal judgement and a particular knowledge of a paganus kind concerning living beings, human nature, Nature, the Cosmic Order (κόσμος) and our connexion to such manifestations of the μονάς.

As a term Lapis Philosophicus means the "jewel of the alchemist", since the term Philosophicus means an alchemist and not, as is commonly said, a philosopher, just as lapis (qv. λίθος τῶν σοφῶν) when used in Latin alchemical texts means "jewel" and not "stone".

For Hermetic tradition relates that λίθος as a jewel, or precious stone, was attested by Herodotus, who in The Histories, Book II, 44, wrote, in reference to "the sacred Temple of Heracles", ἡ δὲ σμαράγδου λίθου λάμποντος τὰς νύκτας μέγαθος.

It was possibly used in the same way by Aristotle who wrote, in reference to the Nine Archons, ἀναγράψαντες δὲ τοὺς νόμους εἰς τοὺς κύρβεις ἔστησαν ἐν τῇ στοᾷ τῇ βασιλείᾳ καὶ ὥμοσαν χρήσεσθαι πάντες. οἱ δ' ἐννέα ἄρχοντες ὄμνύντες πρὸς τῷ λίθῳ κατεφάτιζον ἀναθήσειν ἀνδριάντα χρυσοῦν, ἐάν τινα παραβῶσι τῶν νόμων: ὅθεν ἔτι καὶ νῦν οὕτως ὄμνύουσι. Athenian Constitution, 7.1

Also, as noted in English-Greek Dictionary: A Vocabulary of the Attic Language by S. C. Woodhouse, published by Routledge & Kegan Paul in 1910, the term λίθος describes a jewel, as in Plato: ὃν καὶ τὰ ἐνθάδε λιθίδια εἶναι ταῦτα τὰ ἀγαπώμενα μόρια, σάρδιά τε καὶ ἵάσπιδας καὶ σμαράγδους καὶ πάντα τὰ τοιαῦτα: ἔκει δὲ οὐδὲν ὅτι οὐ τοιοῦτον εἶναι καὶ ἔτι τούτων καλλίω. Phaedo 110 δ-ε

From The O9A Seven Fold Way To The Hebdomian Way A New Beginning

Symbol Of The Hebdomian Way

The Hebdomian Way is a way of our own devising, representing our esoteric Weltanschauung based on our individual quests for Lapis Philosophicus {1} and which quests began some years ago with us following the Order of Nine Angles Seven Fold Way (7FW) and the esoteric philosophy devised by Anton Long from (i) ancient Hermetic and Alchemical traditions and (ii) the empathic pagan Britannic tradition of the Rounwytha which he inherited. {2} In effect, our quests along the Seven Fold Way were an apprenticeship, since completed, with the Hebdomian Way the result of what we have discovered for ourselves by pathei-mathos, what we have developed, and what we have left behind or found to be, for us, unnecessary or unhelpful in our individual quests for Lapis Philosophicus. Among what we divined to be unnecessary, or unhelpful for us, was all forms of sorcery, all Occult rituals, "Satanism" however defined, all antinomian gestures or deeds, and all practical involvement with the external world with aim of seeking to change that world be it by politics or by a dialectic involving opposing "the Magian" or by any other means, Occult or otherwise.

According to Anton Long,

"What matters is the individual developing, from their own years-long (mostly decades-long) practical experience, a personal weltanschauung: that is, discovering their own individual answers to certain questions concerning themselves, life, existence, the Occult, and the nature of Reality." {3}

In a letter to Michael Aquino, dated 20th October 1990 ev, he expected his own works to "become transformed, by their own metamorphosis and that due to other individuals: changed, extended and probably ultimately transcended [...] Each individual develops their own unique perspective and insight as a consequence of striving to achieve Adeptship." {4}

As Mr Parker of Shropshire wrote in 2017 in regard to the Seven Fold Way:

"the 7FW is not an Occult 'Right Hand Path' nor an Occult 'Left Hand Path' nor even 'satanist', but rather a means for the individual to develop their own unique weltanschauung and one which enables them to transcend such labels and categories." {5}

Thus, our Way is a Hermetic ἐπιστήμη, a new beginning beyond the O9A, evolving the O9A technique the Seven Fold Way, while being different from the O9A in all other respects since the Hebdomian Way is a purely esoteric, mystic, individual way and philosophy, that does not involve sorcery or magick or Occult rites of any kind, and which eschews all politics and political ideologies, all religions ancient and modern, all former and current interpretations of Occultism, Satanism and the Western Right and Left Hand Paths, and all notions of changing the world and societies by any and all means be they political, religious, ideological, or involving what Anton Long termed Insight Roles and Aeonic magick.

As an esoteric philosophy concerned only with individual development and the individual interior quest for, and the individual discovery of, Lapis Philosophicus, there is no group, no Order, no organization, no leader or leadership and thus there are no groups, no nexions, no members, no recruitment, no proselytizing, no dialectical methodology, no Labyrinthos Mythologicus, and no codes of personal or communal behaviour to be adhered to.

The term Hebdomian has been derived by us from the Greek ἑβδομάς (and thus the Latin hebdomad) which word occurs in the Greek text of the Corpus Hermeticum, especially the Ποιμάνδρης (Poemander/Pymander) tractate, and also in the Greek text of Plutarch's De Iside et Osiride in connection with (i) an ancient Egyptian interpretation of Pythagorean mathematics, (ii) the Greek Goddess Athena, and (iii) the myth of Isis and Osiris. Given the term ἑβδομάς is also connected to Anton Long's hermetic Seven Fold Way it seemed to us an appropriate term to describe our new, modern, but anciently derived esoteric way.

Plutarch - De Iside et Osiride 10 (354f) - wrote:

δοκῶ δ' ἔγωγε καὶ τὸ τὴν μονάδα τοὺς ἄνδρας ὄνομάζειν Ἀπόλλωνα καὶ τὴν δυάδα Ἄρτεμιν, Ἀθηνᾶν δὲ τὴν ἐβδομάδα, Ποσειδῶνα δὲ τὸν πρῶτον κύβον ἔοικέναι τοῖς ἐπὶ τῶν ιερῶν ἴδρυμένοις καὶ δρωμένοις νὴ Δία καὶ γραφομένοις.

{1} Lapis Philosophicus refers to that which is sought by means of an individual hermetic (esoteric, alchemical) quest: which is Wisdom, whereby Wisdom is meant a balanced, rational, personal judgement and a particular knowledge of a pagan kind concerning living beings, human nature, Nature, the Cosmic Order (κόσμος) and our connexion to such manifestations of the μονάς.

As a term Lapis Philosophicus means the "jewel of the alchemist", since the term Philosophicus means an alchemist and not, as is commonly said, a philosopher, just as lapis (qv. λίθος τῶν σοφῶν) when used in Latin alchemical texts means "jewel" and not "stone".

For Hermetic tradition relates that λίθος as a jewel, or precious stone, was attested by Herodotus, who in The Histories, Book II, 44, wrote, in reference to "the sacred Temple of Heracles", ἡ δὲ σμαράγδου λίθου λάμπουντος τὰς νύκτας μέγαθος.

It was possibly used in the same way by Aristotle who wrote, in reference to the Nine Archons, ἀναγράψαντες δὲ τοὺς νόμους εἰς τοὺς κύρβεις ἔστησαν ἐν τῇ στοᾷ τῇ βασιλείῳ καὶ ὕμοσαν χρήσεσθαι πάντες. οἱ δ' ἐννέα ἄρχοντες ὄμνύντες πρὸς τῷ λίθῳ κατεφάτιζον ἀναθήσειν ἀνδριάντα χρυσοῦν, ἐάν τινα παραβῶσι τῶν νόμων: ὅθεν ἔτι καὶ νῦν οὕτως ὄμνύουσι. Athenian Constitution, 7.1

Also, as noted in English-Greek Dictionary: A Vocabulary of the Attic Language by S. C. Woodhouse, published by Routledge & Kegan Paul in 1910, the term λίθος describes a jewel, as in Plato:

ὦν καὶ τὰ ἐνθάδε λιθίδια εἶναι ταῦτα τὰ ἀγαπώμενα μόρια, σάρδιά τε καὶ ιάσπιδας καὶ σμαράγδους καὶ πάντα τὰ τοιαῦτα: ἐκεῖ δὲ οὐδὲν ὅτι οὐ τοιοῦτον εἶναι καὶ ἔτι τούτων καλλίω. Phaedo 110 δ-ε

The Esoteric Philosophy And Seven Fold Way Of Anton Long - A Debate

Desertam Indefensamque? There has been much private debate in recent months among some Adepts of the esoteric tradition developed by the pseudonymous Anton Long, and known among those Adepts by the appellation Order of Nine Angles<sup>1</sup>, as to whether or not and in public that tradition should be abandoned and undefended by them given their own pathei-mathos and the torrent of accusations levelled since 2018 against what others have described as a group or organization named "the order of nine angles" or "O9A".

These accusations were propagated by antifascist groups and individuals, by some politicians, and by some journalists, and have resulted in requests by such groups and such politicians that the British government proscribe the "O9A" because they believe it to be a group or organization which incites terrorism, which has members convicted of terrorism offences, and which is also alleged to incite such dishonourable things as rape, paedophilia, and misogyny.

These Adepts of that esoteric tradition, who are primarily based in the United Kingdom, are of the opinion that such accusations were the result of a disinformation campaign by an American agent provocateur paid by the FBI<sup>2</sup> and which disinformation was believed by antifascist groups and individuals, by some politicians, and by some journalists who often in a propagandistic manner embellished such disinformation and who either did not bother to do their own research using primary sources such as the writings of Anton Long, or having done some minimal research ignored what was written in favour of their own prejudicial assumptions about that esoteric tradition, one of which was that the appellation Order of Nine Angles referred to a group or organization with members.

The debate among the Adepts did not concern such requests for a group called by such propagandists the Order of Nine Angles to be proscribed, since those Adepts were of the opinion: (i) that the O9A was a philosophy, not a group with members and which philosophy or esoteric tradition was manifest, presenced, in a practical way by the individualistic quest for Lapis Philosophicus - for wisdom<sup>3</sup> - and described by Anton Long's Seven Fold Way, and (ii) that the esoteric tradition with its Seven Fold Way could only be realistically taught, and learnt, in private as had occurred since the 1980s. This generational, individual, mostly covert transmission meant that attempts to declare the O9A illegal, a terrorist group, and ban its literature were irrelevant, as would be making membership a criminal offence.

Instead, the debate concerned three related matters.

1. One of the foundations of the esoteric philosophy devised by Anton Long was and is its anarchical - or as some would write and say its nihilistic - principle of the authority of individual judgment<sup>4</sup> which in practice means that anyone is free to interpret that philosophy and implement it in their own individual way and thus devise their own praxis or praxes to implement or presence it. Deriving from that foundational principle is the fact that there is not, never has been, and cannot be any leader and thus no one who can make any rules or state what is the correct, authorized, interpretation or implementation, not even Anton Long himself. The principle also means one other thing: that there is not and cannot be some Adept, some cabal or some "inner circle of Adepts" who can make rules or state what is the correct, authorized, interpretation or implementation.

Hence there is no "official" - correct - interpretation of Anton Long's philosophy and no "official" - correct, authorized - implementation or praxis of that philosophy. No official, authorized nexions, cells, temples, or chapters.<sup>5</sup> No official, authorized statements or press releases; no official, authorized book(s), treatise(s), or texts; and in this internet age, no official, authorized, websites, blogs, zines, social media accounts, or whatever.

While there have been, in the past two years or so, many published texts, essays and even books by various Adepts to explain that the disinformation concocted by an FBI-paid agent provocateur, as well as the accusations and claims made regarding Anton Long's philosophy, are false, malicious, and unsupported by Anton Long's writings,<sup>6</sup> these explanations - because of the principle of the authority of individual judgment - have no ultimate authority and therefore can be judged by both supporters and opponents of Anton Long's philosophy as just a particular interpretation of that philosophy.

The consensus was that an insider, an adept, interpretation of that philosophy is:

- (i) that the appellation Order of Nine Angles refers to an esoteric tradition, a philosophy, which has over decades become a sub-culture which individuals can identify with, and does not refer to a group or organization which has or which recruits members;
- (ii) that since it is a philosophy it has no leader or leaders;
- (iii) that implicit in that philosophy and in the writings of Anton Long are certain ethical boundaries;<sup>7</sup>
- (iv) that the actions and beliefs and attitudes of some of those who according to antifascists and others may have been influenced by Anton Long's philosophy are dishonourable and incompatible with that philosophy.

2. That while over the past forty years the anarchic-nihilistic principle of the authority of individual judgment has contributed to the transmission of Anton Long's esoteric philosophy mainly in the lands of the West but also in some non-Western lands, and led to the creation of nexions, cells, temples, and chapters around the world describing themselves as "O9A", it has also contributed to diverse interpretations of Anton Long's philosophy and to diverse practical implementations of that philosophy, with some nexions producing their own literature about their interpretation and practical implementation of that philosophy.

This has led to the situation that now exists in regard to (a) what-is and what-is-not "O9A" philosophy and praxis, (b) who is and who is not "O9A", and (c) to various interpretations and mis-interpretations of or disinformation about the "O9A" influencing certain individuals to do deeds which the Adept interpretation of Anton Long's philosophy describes as dishonourable and incompatible with that philosophy.

3. The matter of the collective pathei-mathos, the learning from experience, which, for those Adepts, resulted from their individual quests for Lapis Philosophicus by means of Anton Long's Seven Fold Way. When compared, it was obvious, as Anton Long himself predicted,<sup>8</sup> that it changed their perception of many aspects of Anton Long's philosophy including the practices of the Seven Fold Way with all but one of the Adepts regarding many of those aspects as unnecessary for or incompatible with or no longer relevant in respect of an individual esoteric quest for Lapis Philosophicus.

Among such aspects discovered by pathei-mathos to be unnecessary, incompatible, or no longer relevant were:

- (i) the games, deceptions, and the trickery presenced by Anton Long's Labyrinthos Mythologicus;
- (ii) Occult rituals and ceremonies in general, and all types of sorcery;
- (iii) Insight Roles;
- (iv) the causal abstractions and dialectic involved in supporting or using for whatever reason political forms such as National Socialism;
- (v) Satanism, however defined or presenced;
- (vi) the complexity of Anton Long's labyrinthine esoteric philosophy;
- (vii) the goal of seeking to presence a New Aeon and to change what-is - such as society or societies - by any means including but not limited to means which are or which can be classified as political, religious, ideological, social, mythological or Occult.

The consensus was that a modern individual quest, the ἄνοδος, for Lapis Philosophicus is an interior one concerned with the individual learning through a non-political, non-religious, way by various and mostly practical experiences some of which involve an isolation from the world, physical and intellectual challenges, and a period or periods of contemplation of Nature by a living in a rural environment for a certain period or periods.

The conclusion reached as a result of the debate, with one dissenter, was that in respect of Anton Long's labyrinthine esoteric philosophy and his Seven Fold Way, and with the foundational principle of the authority of individual judgement meaning that their agreed interpretation has no authority whatsoever: Desertam Indefensamque, and thus that they should present overtly, or covertly and individually, a new ἄνοδος for Lapis Philosophicus derived from their own or their collective pathei-mathos devoid of what was enumerated above as unnecessary, incompatible, or no longer relevant for such a modern and mystical quest.

Lapis Philosophicus refers to that which is sought by means of an individual hermetic (esoteric, alchemical) quest: which is Wisdom, whereby Wisdom is meant a balanced, rational, personal judgement and a particular knowledge of a paganus kind concerning living beings, human nature, Nature, the Cosmic Order (κόσμος) and our connexion to such manifestations of the μονάς.

As a term Lapis Philosophicus means the "jewel of the alchemist", since the term Philosophicus means an alchemist and not, as is commonly said, a philosopher, just as lapis (qv. λίθος τῶν σοφῶν) when used in Latin alchemical texts means "jewel" and not "stone".

For Hermetic tradition relates that λίθος as a jewel, or precious stone, was attested by Herodotus, who in The Histories, Book II, 44, wrote, in reference to "the sacred Temple of Heracles", ή δὲ σμαράγδου λίθου λάμποντος τὰς νύκτας μέγαθος.

It was possibly used in the same way by Aristotle who wrote, in reference to the Nine Archons, ἀναγράψαντες δὲ τοὺς νόμους εἰς τοὺς κύρβεις ἔστησαν ἐν τῇ στοᾶ τῇ βασιλείῳ καὶ ὥμοσαν χρήσεσθαι πάντες. οἱ δ' ἐννέα ἄρχοντες ὄμνύντες πρὸς τῷ λίθῳ κατεφάτιζον ἀναθήσειν ἀνδριάντα χρυσοῦν, ἐάν τινα παραβῶσι τῶν νόμων: ὅθεν ἔτι καὶ νῦν οὕτως ὄμνύουσι. Athenian Constitution, 7.1

Also, as noted in English-Greek Dictionary: A Vocabulary of the Attic Language by S. C. Woodhouse, published by Routledge & Kegan Paul in 1910, the term λίθος describes a jewel, as in Plato:

ὦν καὶ τὰ ἐνθάδε λιθίδια εῖναι ταῦτα τὰ ἀγαπώμενα μόρια, σάρδιά τε καὶ ιάσπιδας καὶ σμαράγδους καὶ πάντα τὰ τοιαῦτα: ἐκεῖ δὲ οὐδὲν ὅτι οὐ τοιοῦτον εῖναι καὶ ἔτι τούτων καλλίω. Phaedo 110 δ-ε

The Paradox Of The O9A Authority Of Individual Judgment

It is my opinion that the 'principle of the authority of individual judgment' is something of a paradox - qv. ὅτι εἰκότως ἄρα ὕκνουν τε καὶ ἔδεδούκη οὕτω παράδοξον λόγον λέγειν τε καὶ ἐπιχειρεῖν διασκοπεῖν, Plato, Republic, 472a. But discuss it we now must given what it has led to: individuals and groups associating themselves with the Order of Nine Angles - the esoteric philosophy presenced by Anton Long - being associated by non-O9A folk with those who have preached in favour of and in some cases undertaken what I and a few other O9A folk consider to be dishonourable, cowardly, deeds inconsistent with the ethos, the aesthetic, of O9A esoteric philosophy. An inconsistently described in my text The Boundaries Of O9A Philosophy. {1}

If it is accepted as I have argued in that text that the writings of Anton Long - 1976-2012 - are the primary sources of Order of Nine Angles (O9A) esoteric philosophy then those writings clearly indicate Anton Long himself and his writings are not authoritative but only a beginning, for he claimed no authority and expected his creations such as the O9A to evolve:

"I claim no authority, and my creations, profuse as they are, will in the end be accepted or rejected on the basis of whether they work [...] I also expect to see them become transformed, by their own metamorphosis and that due to other individuals: changed, extended and probably ultimately transcended, may be even forgotten. They – like the individual I am at the moment – are only a stage, toward something else." {2}

In stark practical terms this, and similar statements by Anton Long, means that anyone can interpret O9A esoteric philosophy in whatever way they want and establish their own nexion which propagates that interpretation with there being no "authorized" version of O9A philosophy and no person or nexion claiming to "officially" represent the O9A.

As described in the text Aristocracy, Anarchy, or Nihilism? The Continuing Internal O9A Debate,

"One of the many interesting things about the Order of Nine Angles is the diversity of opinion and interpretation among those who associate themselves with the O9A or who follow or who are inspired by the esoteric philosophy of Anton Long. Such a diversity of opinion and interpretation of matters O9A is natural and necessary [for] the O9A, from its beginnings, has – via its praxes and its principle of individual judgement – encouraged every O9A person, nexion, group, or cell, to develop their own interpretation of everything O9A." {3}

It also means that my interpretation of there being ethical boundaries embedded in the writings of Anton Long {1} is only my interpretation and possesses no authority and can therefore be rejected or accepted by individuals according to their own judgment, pathei-mathos, and/or esoteric intuition.

This question of interpretation, of exegesis, is relevant to many philosophies and religions whose followers or adherents often have to rely on translations of texts. Thus, students of Western philosophy often study the works of Plato, Aristotle, Kant and Heidegger in translation just as most adherents of the religion of Christianity rely on translations of the Old and New Testaments, which reliance can lead to differing interpretations of meaning and as in the case of Christianity to schisms, to varying claims of authority, and even to accusations of heresy. {4}

Understood thus, the lack of authority and lack of orthodoxy in O9A philosophy is an advantage and has contributed to an increase in the number of people who associate themselves with it, follow its esoterism and the praxis that is the Seven Fold Way, or are influenced by O9A philosophy and praxis in some manner. It also has the advantage that governments cannot proscribe - ban - the O9A since, being a philosophy, it does not have a "leader" or a hierarchy or any official nexions or even any members but has morphed from being an esoteric philosophy into being a diverse Occult sub-culture.

Yet as recent, post-2018, events have revealed {5} it is also something of a disadvantage since those adherents with their particular interpretation - such as the TWS Nexion - are and have been mistakenly or deliberately associated by opponents of O9A philosophy with an often diametric interpretation such as that manufactured by the American Tempel ov Blood whose founder was later exposed as an FBI agent provocateur and paid US$78,133.20 (plus expenses of $4,378.60) by the FBI between February 7, 2018 and early 2020. {6}

The paradox, inherent in O9A philosophy, is thus whether those so maligned, by whomsoever for whatever reason, by such a different (mis)interpretation - in the case of the TWS Nexion, with a maliciously manufactured (mis)interpretation - should still align themselves with O9A philosophy, or whether they as a natural consequence of their esoterically acquired pathei-mathos and as Anton Long foresaw {7} develop their own esoteric philosophy and praxis, as the TWS Nexion has done with their Hebdomian Way. {8}

The answer, again in my opinion, is that it is for each individual or nexion to resolve/solve the paradox for themselves using their own judgment, pathei-mathos, and/or esoteric intuition.

I. The Sevenfold Seeking

The Hebdomian Way is a modern hermetic ἐπιστήμη, épistémé: a means to change the φύσις, physis - the character/nature/perception - of an individual by practical means involving a seeking or quest; which seeking derives from ancient hermeticism and which practical means, as the term hebdomian implies, involves seven stages with the goal being the discovery of wisdom understood in hermetic terms as a balanced, rational, personal judgement and a particular knowledge of a paganus kind concerning living beings, human nature, Nature, the Cosmic Order (κόσμος) and our connexion to such emanations of what has been variously termed Being, The-Unity, The One-The Only (τὸ ἔν), and The Monas (μονάς).

This sevenfold seeking (ἀνοδος) for wisdom - to "learn what is real, to apprehend the physis of beings, and to have knowledge of the theos", Μαθεῖν θέλω τὰ ὄντα καὶ νοῆσαι τὴν τούτων φύσιν καὶ γνῶναι τὸν θεόν - has been described and written about, in the cultures of European lands, for around two thousand years beginning with the text of the Πομάνδρης (Poemandres) tractate of the Corpus Hermeticum written between c.100 and c.230 ev from which the foregoing quotation is taken, with ὁ θεός, the theos, variously understood over the centuries: from the pagan the divinity, the chief /divinity/god such as Zeus in ancient Greek mythoi; to the μονάς and the τὸ ἔν (Monas and The One-The Only) of Hermeticism, of the Gnostics, and of some alchemists of Renaissance Europe; to the monotheistic God/Allah of Christian and Muslim theologists and other alchemists; to more modern non-theological interpretations as Being, the source of beings. {1}

The sevenfold manner of this seeking, this anados through the seven spheres of the 'harmonious, ordered, structure',

{2} is described in the Poemandres tractate in the following terms:

καὶ οὕτως ὄρμᾶ λοιπὸν ἄνω διὰ τῆς ἀρμονίας, καὶ τῇ πρώτῃ ζώνῃ δίδωσι τὴν αὐξητικὴν ἐνέργειαν καὶ τὴν μειωτικήν, καὶ τῇ δευτέρᾳ τὴν μηχανὴν τῶν κακῶν, δόλον ἀνενέργητον, καὶ τῇ τρίτῃ τὴν ἐπιθυμητικὴν ἀπάτην ἀνενέργητον, καὶ τῇ τετάρτῃ τὴν ἀρχοντικὴν προφανίαν ἀπλεονέκτητον, καὶ τῇ πέμπτῃ τὸ θράσος τὸ ἀνόσιον καὶ τῆς τόλμης τὴν προπέτειαν, καὶ τῇ ἕκτῃ τὰς ἀφορμὰς τὰς κακὰς τοῦ πλούτου ἀνενεργήτους, καὶ τῇ ἔβδομῃ ζώνῃ τὸ ἐνεδρεῦον ψεῦδος.

"Thus does the mortal hasten through the harmonious structure, offering up, in the first realm, that vigour which grows and which fades, and - in the second one - those dishonourable machinations, no longer functioning. In the third, that eagerness which deceives, no longer functioning; in the fourth, the arrogance of command, no longer insatiable; in the fifth, profane insolence and reckless haste; in the sixth, the bad inclinations occasioned by riches, no longer functioning; and in the seventh realm, the lies that lie in wait."

Poemandres, v. 25, translated by D. Myatt {3}

Ερμόν του Τρισμεγίστου Ποιμανδρης Ασκληπιού 'Οροι προς Ἀμμονα Βασιλέα
1554 ev. pp.8-9

In modern terms, the human traits described as being 'offered up' (δίδωμι) during the sevenfold seeking are:

- 1. That vigour - enthusiasm - which grows and which fades.
- 2. Those dishonourable machinations.
- 3. That eagerness which deceives.
- 4. The arrogance of authority over others.
- 5. Profane insolence and reckless haste.
- 6. The bad inclinations occasioned by a comfortable life-style.
- 7. The lies that lie in wait.

What is noticeable is that in the Poemandres text the stages, the seven spheres of the harmonious structure, are not assigned names (denotata) or designated by 'grades' or associated with the seven classical planets Moon, Mercury, Venus, Sun, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn. Such associations were later developments as was this sevenfold seeking for wisdom being described as the quest for Lapis Philosophicus understood as the attainment by an individual of wisdom. {4}

Such an association with those named planets inevitably, given the nature of gnosticism, hermeticism, and alchemy, led over the centuries - as Evola noted {5} - to diverse arrangements for their order.

One such arrangement was:

Azoth Sive Aureliae Occultae Philosophorum, 1613 ev. p. 57

Another, depicted as a living tree and on the title page, was:

Azoth Sive Aureliae Occultae Philosophorum, 1613 ev.

One of the oldest illustrated arrangements, so far discovered, is that given in the Arabic text Ghayat al-hakim dating from c.1050 ev where the named spheres are in the order (if read from right to left) Saturn-Jupiter-Mars-Sun-Venus-Mercury-Moon:

زحل المشترى المريخ الشمس الزهرة عطارد القمر

Furthermore, Cicero in Book VI of his De Re Publica - a section commonly known as Somnium Scipionis - written at least a century before the text of the Poemandres tractate and over a thousand years before Ghayat al-hakim, mentions the seven spheres in the following order: Saturn-Jupiter-Mars-Sun-Venus-Mercury-Moon. Which is a descending order from the supreme deity to the embedded constant stars to the seven spheres below them. {6}

Which descending arrangement is reversed in many Renaissance texts including the following which helpfully numbers them from 1-7:

Azoth Sive Aureliae Occultae Philosophorum, 1613 ev. p. 66

In his 1564 (ev) work Monas Hieroglyphica John Dee provides another sequence:

Monas Hieroglyphica, 1564 ev

A later work (1682 ev) provides two sequences both with the Sun at the centre:

Such association of the seven spheres of the ἄνωδος with the seven classical planets also led to often varying tables of correspondences giving what were assumed or believed to be the attributes or the qualities or the nature of each sphere, with for example the sphere of Saturn attributed in one work to the metal Lead, the alchemical stage of Putrefaction, and the constellation Capricorn:

II. Noesis And The Star Game

One esoteric and important feature of The Hebdomian Way is that the seven stages although in a particular sequence are named only initially and purely for convenience and have no correspondences or any attributes associated with them - mythological, alchemical, astronomical, philosophical, psychological, Occult, or otherwise - save for those personal qualities associated with a particular stage or sphere in the Poemandres tractate. That is, The Hebdomian Way returns to the primary hermetic source since the essence of that Way is changing the individual through pathei-mathos - πάθει μάθος, the personal learning or discovery resulting from practical experiences and challenges - with everything external or internal to this considered as unnecessary, unhelpful, and distractive.

The sequence of The Hebdomian Way is the Ciceronian and ancient one of Moon-Mercury-Venus-Sun-Mars-Jupiter-Saturn although as was often done in medieval and Renaissance times in Europe this particular order could be and often was inverted, as Evola mentions:

Nell'antica tradizione ellenistica, riportata da Stefano (247), l'ordine è diverso. Le regioni sideree, associate agli dèi e alle metallità sacre a ciascuno di essi, hanno il seguente ordine: Saturno (Piombo, ♂), Giove (Bronzo, ♀), Marte (Ferro, ♂), Sole (Oro, ☽), Venere (Rame, ♀), Mercurio (♀), Luna (Argento, ☽). Questa disposizione però si può ricondurre ad una simmetria rispetto al Sole che sta al centro, con sopra Saturno, Giove e Marte, triade di divinità maschili, e sotto, in simmetria, Venere, Mercurio e Luna triade di divinità feminali (il Mercurio come «Donna dei Filosofi»): come nel grafico riportato a p. 173. L'itinerario spirituale allora sarebbe, per così dire, a spirale: partendo da un dio maschio superiore, si discenderebbe per ricongiungersi con la divinità feminile sim-

Evola, op.cit., p.172

In the practical and uncomplicated Hebdomian Way such a reversal has no significance, for what is significant is the pathei-mathos which could 'offer up' the trait of a particular stage howsoever that stage is named or not-named.

Which is why the noetic version of The Star Game (see section III) can be used as an experiencing and understanding of the Hebdomad and the sevenfold seeking, sans denotata, thus betaking the individual beyond the unnecessary need for both a dialectic of opposites and the exegesis of the written word, an exegesis evident for example in the various and varying translations/interpretations of the tractates of the Corpus Hermeticum. Which personal and noetic experiencing and understanding of the Hebdomad and the sevenfold seeking forms a necessary part of the pathēmathos of the first stage of the Hebdomian Way, with noesis understood as a silent, contemplative, way of knowing and 'thinking' as intimated in the enigmatic tractate XIII of the Corpus Hermeticum:

i) σοφία νοερὰ ἐν σιγῇ

noetic sapientia is in silence. (v.2)

ii) νοερῶς ἔγνως σεαυτὸν

Through noesis you have obtained knowledge about yourself. (v.22)

Of which translation Myatt writes {7} in his commentary:

2. noetic sapientia. For a variety of reasons, I have used the term noetic sapientia to denote σοφία νοερὰ.

i) The metaphysical terms νοῦς νοερός, νοῦς οὐσιώδης, and νοῦς ζωτικός occur in Proclus, qv. Procli Diadochi In Platonis Timaeum Commentarii, Volume 5, Book 4, 245-247; Procli in Platonis Parmenidem Commentaria, II 733 and IV 887. Interestingly, Proclus associates νοερός with the three 'septenary planets' Mercury, Venus, and the Sun.

Here, σοφία νοερὰ may well suggest a particular hermetic principle which requires contextual interpretation.

ii) As noted in my commentary on Poemandres 29 - where I used the Latin sapientia in respect of σοφία - in some contexts the English word 'wisdom' does not fully reflect the meaning (and the various shades) of σοφία, especially in a metaphysical (or esoteric) context given what the English term 'wisdom' now, in common usage and otherwise, often denotes. As in the Poemandres tractate sapientia (for σοφία) requires contextual - a philosophical - interpretation, as Sophia (for σοφία) does in tractate XI where it is there suggestive, as with Aion, Kronos, and Kosmos, of a personified metaphysical principle.

iii) In respect of νοερός, the English word 'intellectual' has too many irrelevant modern connotations, with phrases such as 'intellectual wisdom' and 'the wisdom that understands' - for σοφία νοερὰ - unhelpful regarding suggesting a relevant philosophical meaning. Hence the use of the term 'noetic' which suggests a particular type of apprehension - a perceiveration - whereby certain knowledge and a particular understanding can be ascertained.

Thus, noetic sapientia implies that the knowledge and understanding that is noetically acquired transcends - or at least is different from - that acquired both (a) through observation of and deductions concerning phenomena and (b) through the use of <denotata> whereby beings are given 'names' and assigned to abstractive categories with such naming and such categories assumed to provide knowledge and understanding of the physis of those beings. [In respect of physis, qv. the comment on φύσεως μιᾶς in section 12.]

In addition, given what follows - ἐν σιγῇ, 'in silence' - such knowledge and understanding does not require nor depend upon words whether they be spoken or written or thought. Hence, the 'source' of mortals is in, can be known and understood through, the silence of noetic sapientia.

III. The Noetic Star Game

The noetic Star Game is the use of The Star Game as either (i) a type of silent contemplative meditation by one person who plays one side - the 'white pieces' - against the other side - the 'black pieces' - with an objective determined beforehand, or (ii) against a partner, as in chess, again with an objective determined beforehand.

In both instances the game can be useful in developing an insight into the hebdomad and such matters as the flow and transformation - unfolding, and loss - of beings (symbolised by the pieces) through causality and otherwise; and how symbols as in mathematics and symbolic logic can enable diverse and sometimes new connections to be perceived, sans denotata.

The Star Game itself is a three-dimensional seven-board game developed by David Myatt in 1975 with the seven boards, each board of nine white and nine black squares, placed in a spiral one above the other, representing the hermetic hebdomad, and named after the stars Naos, Deneb, Rigel, Mira, Antares, Arcturus, and Sirius.

The Boards

The pieces are designated by symbols and which symbols can be of two types: purely symbolic using a combination of Greek letters or alchemical using alchemical sigils. Each side - or player - as in chess has a set of either white pieces or black pieces, with each player having 27 pieces consisting of three sets of nine combinations. In terms of Greek letters the nine pieces for each player are:

$\alpha(\alpha) \alpha(\beta) \alpha(\gamma) \beta(\alpha) \beta(\beta) \beta(\gamma) \gamma(\alpha) \gamma(\beta) \gamma(\gamma)$

Each piece is thus marked with the appropriate symbol - for example  $\alpha(\alpha)$  - with each piece allowed to move across a board, or up or down from board to board, according to its type. Only a  $\gamma(\gamma)$  type of piece can capture other opposing pieces, and a captured piece is removed from the boards and plays no further part in the game. The basic rule of play is that after a piece has been moved - whether across a board or from one board to a higher or lower board - it is transformed into another piece according to a set sequence and then can be moved according to its new designation. Another rule is that pieces can only stay on the Mira board for three moves: once placed on Mira, the player has three moves before it must be moved to another board. Thus, if a  $\alpha(\alpha)$  piece is on Mira it cannot escape since it can only move across the board in which case the piece is forfeited and removed from the game.

The set sequence, for symbolic Greek pieces, is:

$\alpha(\alpha) \rightarrow \alpha(\beta) \rightarrow \alpha(\gamma) \rightarrow \beta(\alpha) \rightarrow \beta(\beta) \rightarrow \beta(\gamma)$
 $\rightarrow \gamma(\alpha) \rightarrow \gamma(\beta) \rightarrow \gamma(\gamma)$

Thus, a  $\alpha(\alpha)$  piece when it is moved becomes a  $\alpha(\beta)$  piece;  $\alpha(\beta)$  becomes  $\alpha(\gamma)$  and so on. When a  $\gamma(\gamma)$  piece is moved it reverts to being a  $\alpha(\alpha)$  piece.

In terms of alchemical sigils, the pieces are:

Alchemical Mercury, Alchemical Salt, Alchemical Sulphur

and the sequence is:

It is for each individual to decide which type of symbolism to use, with the alchemical one and the boards of The Star Game illustrated in the following image:

The Star Game

The image shows how the pieces are often constructed: as cubes (of wood or other material) with the sides painted with symbols in sequence. Thus, on the six faces of one cube its faces/sides would be marked  $\alpha(\alpha)$   $\alpha(\beta)$   $\alpha(\gamma)$   $\beta(\alpha)$   $\beta(\beta)$   $\beta(\gamma)$ . In use, the symbol on the top of the cube – for example  $\alpha(\alpha)$  – is the 'active' symbol, and designates the type of piece. When this  $\alpha(\alpha)$  piece is moved, it becomes  $\alpha(\beta)$  with the cube turned so that the  $\alpha(\beta)$  symbol is at the top. On its next move, this  $\alpha(\beta)$  piece would be transformed into  $\alpha(\gamma)$  and the cube turned again so that the  $\alpha(\gamma)$  symbol was at the top. This method of marking pieces also means that each player has to make extra (spare) pieces.

At the start of the game, each player has six particular pieces on Sirius, three pieces on Arcturus, six pieces on Antares, three on Rigel, six on Deneb, three on Naos, and none on Mira. As in other board games, the players take turns to make their moves.

The Moves

After a piece has been moved and changed to the one next in sequence it moves according to the type of piece it has become. Thus,  $\alpha(\gamma)$  becomes  $\beta(\alpha)$  and moves according to the rules for a  $\beta$  piece.

° The  $\alpha$  pieces -  $\alpha(\alpha)$   $\alpha(\beta)$   $\alpha(\gamma)$  - can move only across the board they are on to any vacant square.

- ° The  $\beta$  pieces -  $\beta(\alpha)$   $\beta(\beta)$   $\beta(\gamma)$  - can move across the board they are already on to any vacant square, and up, or down, one level - for example, from Arcturus up to Antares, or down to Sirius.
- ° The  $\gamma$  pieces can move to any (vacant) square on any board and a  $\gamma(\gamma)$  piece can capture any opposing piece on any square on any board, with the captured piece removed from the board and playing no further part. Once moved the  $\gamma(\gamma)$  becomes  $\alpha(\alpha)$  and as an  $\alpha$  piece can only move across the board it has landed on.

The player or players decide before the start whether or not to allow a rule variation that increases the difficulty of the game: that pieces on Naos cannot be captured by a  $\gamma(\gamma)$  piece.

Initial Placement

The initial placings are as follows:

- ° Six pieces are placed on Sirius - two sets of alpha pieces - for white, and six for black as in Figure 1.

- ° Arcturus has three pieces for white and three for black, as in Figure 2:

$\alpha(\beta)_\phi$		$\alpha(\alpha)_\phi$
	$\alpha(\gamma)_\phi$
	$\alpha(\gamma)_\gamma$
$\alpha(\alpha)_\gamma$		$\alpha(\beta)_\gamma$

Figure 2

- Antares has six pieces for white and six for black - two sets of beta pieces, placed exactly as the pieces on the Sirius board.
- Mira has no pieces on it at the start.
- Rigel has the three remaining pieces (for each player) of the beta sets, placed as the alpha pieces on Arcturus.
- Deneb has six pieces of white and six of black from the gamma set, placed as the alpha set on Sirius.
- Naos has the three remaining pieces of the gamma set, placed the same as the alpha sets of Arcturus.

The Objective

The objective is flexible and decided by the player or players before the game. The standard objective is to place three particular pieces on certain squares on Mira, with the type of these pieces and their placing on that board decided beforehand. One such placement is,

$\alpha(\beta)_\lambda$		$\alpha(\alpha)_\lambda$
	$\alpha(\gamma)_\lambda$
	$\alpha(\gamma)_\phi$
$\alpha(\alpha)_\phi$		$\alpha(\beta)_\phi$

where the sub-script  $\lambda$  indicates the winning position for the player of the white pieces, with the three other pieces the winning position for the player of the black pieces. The first to so place such pieces, wins the game.

The player or players can also decide beforehand to waive the rule that allows pieces to only stay on the Mira board for three moves.

IV. The Seven Stages

The Overcoming

- 1. That vigour - enthusiasm - which grows and which fades.
- 2. Those dishonourable machinations.
- 3. That eagerness which deceives.
- 4. The arrogance of authority over others.
- 5. Profane insolence and reckless haste.
- 6. The bad inclinations occasioned by a comfortable life-style.
- 7. The lies that lie in wait.

Thus, and as an example, the second stage is the 'offering up' - the overcoming - of "dishonourable machinations" with the pathei-mathos involved a series of physical challenges, detailed below, which for many would be quite challenging with those who, before beginning their seeking have achieved such challenges setting themselves greater challenges and achieving them, such as instead of the suggested, for a man, training for and running a Marathon in four and a half hours, running one in four hours or much less.

How does or how can the overcoming by the Hebdomadary - the seeker - of such physical challenges distance a person from dishonourable machinations? Because practical experience over decades by a variety of persons has revealed that the training can and should take months, is physically and mentally demanding and time-consuming, and distances one metaphorically and often physically from a world where "dishonourable machinations" may be and possibly have been personally advantageous to the seeker and probably known to have been used by others either against the seeker or otherwise.

The Tasks

Obtain copies of and read tractates I, III, IV, and XIII of The Corpus Hermeticum. The book containing the tractates should have a scholarly commentary and if a translation is required at least two different versions should be obtained, read and compared. {8} Afterwards, write an essay concerning your understanding of Hellenic Hermeticism. If an individual unversed in the classics has a desire to do so they can learn Hellenistic Greek and undertake their own translations. In understanding hermeticism the individual may find the study and use of the noetic Star Game helpful.

For men, (a) walking thirty-two miles, in rural terrain, in less than seven hours while carrying a rucksack weighing at least 30 pounds; (b) running 26 miles and 385 yards (a Marathon) in four and a half hours; (c) cycling two hundred or more miles in twelve hours.

For women, (a) walking twenty-seven miles in under seven hours while carrying a rucksack weighing at least 15 pounds; (b) running 26 miles and 385 yards (a Marathon) in five hours; (c) cycling one hundred and seventy miles in twelve hours.

Those who, before beginning their quest have already reached such standards should set themselves greater physical challenges and achieve them.

With an existing partner, or after finding a suitable partner willing to undertake the task with you, find a hill or mountain in an isolated area - or a desert area miles from any human habitation - which affords an unobstructed night-time view of the stars and wild-camp there for at least three days and nights.

A living alone in an wilderness area, near water suitable for drinking, for a three month period taking with you all that is required in a rucksack which you carry on your own back. You can either (i) build your own shelter from local materials and find your own food by hunting, fishing, and gathering, or (ii) take a tent and sleeping bag and on a monthly basis purchase and take back to your site such food supplies as may be needed from a locality situated at a suitable walking distance, with around 10 miles being suggested.

During the task you should maintain your isolation and have no means of communication with the outside world, use only candles (in a lantern) for illumination, have no means of measuring the passing of time (such as a watch) and no means of reproducing music or any other form of entertainment.

The Hebdomadary should keep a handwritten journal to record their musings.

Write a full length novel of whatever genre, two of whose characters should be based on or inspired by either contemporary or historical persons you find interesting or inspiring or have an empathy for or a dislike of. The novel can also be based on your own life and/or experience and involve a locality and/or persons you know.

You should undertake the necessary contemporary or historical research in terms of plausible characters, scenarios, dialogue and locations, and if necessary read several published contemporary or historical novels to ascertain for yourself how various novelists structure their story, describe characters and events, and employ dialogue.

The task begins at a full moon in Autumn and lasts seven days and nights and is to stay alone for that period in an isolated underground cavern where or near to where drinkable water flows, taking all that is required for the duration of the rite, including water if there is no drinkable water available, and food consisting of bread and cheese and, if you so desire, a supply of wine or beer. If a such an underground cavern cannot be found, then a suitable alternative is an isolated dark cave with, if necessary, its entrance suitably screened to avoid an ingress of light.

The only light is from candles (housed in a lantern) and no means of communication with the outside world, no timepiece, mechanical or otherwise, and no modern means of reproducing music nor any other means of personal entertainment should be brought.

The Hebdomadary should arrange for a trusted person or their partner or a family member to end their isolation after seven days.

The task involves the Hebdomadary - alone or with their partner - walking, in isolated terrain, a distance of at least 210 miles in 21 days carrying appropriate equipment for camping and supplies of food and water to last several days with their route enabling them to find suitable sources of drinking water when necessary. Supplies of food, if dehydrated or freeze-dried, should last as long as practicable, and then when necessary and possible food can be bought en route. The journey is to end at or near a site which the Hebdomadary finds they have an empathy with or if accompanied by their partner that they both have an empathy with. The Hebdomadary and/or their partner should keep a handwritten diary of their journey.

Footnotes

{1} Being itself has been variously understood, through for example traditional metaphysics, through the ontology of Martin Heidegger, and as the numinous/The Numen in Myatt's philosophy of pathei-mathos.

{2} As noted in our essay Julius Evola, The Seven Fold Way, And The Corpus Hermeticum,

An axiom of Greco-Roman (Hellenic) hermeticism is that the κόσμος is a reasoned order and has an ordered structure which human beings, by virtue of possessing the faculty of reason, are - in their natural state of physis (φύσις) or fitrah - an eikon (εἰκὼν) of since as stated in a Latin version (Liber Hermetis de alchimia) of a commentary on the Arabic alchemical text al-Lawh al-Zumurrud, The Emerald Table, quod est inferius est sicut quod est superius, 'what is above is as what is below'.

Which is why tractate II of the Corpus Hermeticum states that there is a "cosmic order on Earth: A cosmos of the divine body sent down as human beings," τὴν γῆν κοσμῆσαι κόσμον δὲ θείου σώματος κατέπεμψε τὸν ἄνθρωπον.

Hence also why the twenty-sixth chapter of the book De Vita Coelitus Comparanda by Marsilius Ficini (published in 1489 ev) has as its heading: Quomodo per inferiora superioribus exposita deducantur superiora, et per mundanas materias mundana potissimum dona, 'How, when what is lower is touched by what is higher, the higher is cosmically presenced therein and thus gifted because cosmically aligned.'

{4} As described in Julius Evola, The Seven Fold Way, And The Corpus Hermeticum (op.cit) and elsewhere:

As a term Lapis Philosophicus means the "jewel of the alchemist", since the term Philosophicus means an alchemist and not, as is commonly said, a philosopher, just as lapis (qv. λίθος τῶν σοφῶν) when used in Latin alchemical texts means "jewel" and not "stone".

For Hermetic tradition relates that λίθος as a jewel, or precious stone, was attested by Herodotus, who in The Histories, Book II, 44, wrote, in reference to "the sacred Temple of Heracles", ἡ δὲ σμαράγδου λίθου λάμποντος τὰς νύκτας μέγαθος.

It was possibly used in the same way by Aristotle who wrote, in reference to the Nine Archons, ἀναγράψαντες δὲ τοὺς νόμους εἰς τοὺς κύρβεις ἔστησαν ἐν τῇ στοᾷ τῇ βασιλείᾳ καὶ ὥμοσαν χρήσεσθαι πάντες. οἱ δ' ἐννέα ἄρχοντες ὅμνύντες πρὸς τῷ λίθῳ κατεφάτιζον ἀναθήσειν ἀνδριάντα χρυσοῦν, ἐάν τινα παραβῶσι τῶν νόμων: ὅθεν ἔτι καὶ νῦν οὕτως ὅμνύουσι. Athenian Constitution, 7.1

Also, as noted in English-Greek Dictionary: A Vocabulary of the Attic Language by S. C. Woodhouse, published by Routledge & Kegan Paul in 1910, the term λίθος describes a jewel, as in Plato:

ὦν καὶ τὰ ἐνθάδε λιθῖδα εἶναι ταῦτα τὰ ἀγαπώμενα μόρια, σάρδιά τε καὶ ἵασπιδας καὶ σμαράγδους καὶ πάντα τὰ τοιαῦτα: ἐκεῖ δὲ οὐδὲν ὅτι οὐ τοιοῦτον εἶναι καὶ ἔτι τούτων καλλίω. Phaedo 110 δ-ε

Julius Evola, The Seven Fold Way, And The Corpus Hermeticism

Introduction

For decades, those associated with the esoteric tradition of the septenary system (έβδομάς) which forms an integral part of the Occult philosophy of the Longusian tradition {1} have maintained not only that their septenary system has ancient roots and is far older than the medieval Hebrew Kabbalah used by most other modern Western Occultists, but also that it is in essence a hermetic philosophy. As is our non-Longusian Hebdomian Way. {2}

An axiom of Greco-Roman (Hellenic) hermeticism is that the κόσμος is a reasoned order and has an ordered structure which human beings, by virtue of possessing the faculty of reason, are - in their natural state of physis (φύσις) or fitrah - an eikon (εἰκὼν) of since as stated in a Latin version (Liber Hermetis de alchimia) of a commentary on the Arabic alchemical text al-Lawh al-Zumurrud, The Emerald Table, quod est inferius est sicut quod est superius, 'what is above is as what is below'. {3}

Which is why tractate II of the Corpus Hermeticum states that there is a "cosmic order on Earth: A cosmos of the divine body sent down as human beings," τὴν γῆν κοσμῆσαι κόσμον δὲ θείου σώματος κατέπεμψε τὸν ἄνθρωπον.

Hence also why the twenty-sixth chapter of the book De Vita Coelitus Comparanda by Marsilii Ficini (published in 1489 ev) has as its heading: Quomodo per inferiora superioribus exposita deducantur superiora, et per mundanas materias mundana potissimum dona, 'How, when what is lower is touched by what is higher, the higher is cosmically presenced therein and thus gifted because cosmically aligned.'

Both the Longusian Seven Fold Way (7FW) and the Hebdomian Way are modern hermetic quests for Lapis Philosophicus {4} in which Myatt's The Star Game is a purely noetic and esoteric representation and experiencing of the Hebdomad and the hermetic quest, sans denotata and thus takes the individual beyond the need for both a dialectic of opposites and the exegesis of the written word. {5}

The Septenary Star Game {5}

Such links to ancient hermeticism - known for decades to Adepts of the Longusian tradition - are particularly obvious when the insights and understanding of Julius Evola as manifest in his La Tradizione Ermetica (The Hermetic Tradition) {6} are considered in the context of those two modern hermetic quests, The Star Game, and Myatt's translation of and commentary on tractates of the Corpus Hermeticum. {7}

This essay is designed to hopefully inspire a few others to undertake their own research into hermeticism, Evola's Hermetic Tradition, and both the Longusian tradition and the non-Longusian Hebdomian Way devoid as this Hebdomian Way is of the Labyrinthos Mythologicus, the politics, the metaphysical complexities and the Occultism of the Longusian tradition, thus making that Way in our view a more accessible and practical manifestation of ancient hermeticism and the individual quest (άνοδος) for Lapis Philosophicus.

I: Evola And The Septenary

§ Evola wrote:

"In addition to the three fundamental colors - black, white, and red - others are also found within the literature. Essentially there are seven in all, which brings us back to the planetary correspondences mentioned before (chapter 14). But as for their place in the Work more than one interpretation is possible." [p. 191 of English translation]

19. I colori alchemici. La moltiplicazione

Nei testi oltre ai tre colori fondamentali – nero, bianco e rosso – se ne incontrano spesso di altri. Di massima, si giunge a sette in tutto ed allora ci si deve riportare alle corrispondenze planetarie su cui già dicemmo (Parte Prima, § 14). Ma a tale riguardo è possibile più di una interpretazione.

p.171 of Italian edition

Comment:

In our Hebdonian Way, the three colours relate to the three fundamental alchemical elements, mercury, salt, sulphur which are the three basic symbols of The Star Game {5} whose nine combinations over the seven boards are a symbolic and esoteric representation of Septenary System and the Hebdomad, sans both denotata and the dialectic of opposites, personal, psychic, and worldly which the individual quest (άνοδος) for Lapis Philosophicus was designed to transcend.

Both the Hebdomad and the Longusian 7FW are a particular arrangement/interpretation of the seven spheres named as they are after the seven classical planets, an arrangement given in an alchemical text published in 1613 as:

Azoth Sive Aureliae Occultae Philosophorum, 1613
Showing the three basic alchemical substances
(Sulphur, Salt, Mercury)

One arrangement given by Evola is:

Which is reminiscent of the spiral illustrated by John Dee in his 1564 (ev) work Monas Hieroglyphica, where the order of the planets is different:

illis multis veluti Helicis Revolutionibus

Regarding the differing arrangements, Evola wrote:

At the beginning of the previous chapter we mentioned that there are different interpretations of the seven. These differences also have to do with part of the disagreement over the order of the planets as given in various texts [...]

Pernety provides this order: Lead (Saturn, black), Tin (Jupiter, gray), Silver (Moon, white), Copper (Venus, reddish-yellow), Iron (Mars, rust), Purple, and Gold (Sun, red). Here it is clear that the planets and the metals correspond to the phases of the diminishing of the darkness (from black to gray to silver) and of progressive ignition (orange, rust, red)

20. La gerarchia planetaria

Al principio del paragrafo precedente abbiamo accennato ad una varietà delle interpretazioni in cui ha una parte anche la discordanza nell'ordine dei pianeti quale è dato nei vari testi. Questa discordanza,

Pernety dà il seguente ordine: Piombo (Saturno, nero), Stagno (Giove, grigio), Argento (Luna, bianco), Rame (Venere, rosso-giallo ), Ferro (Marte, color ruggine), Porpora e Oro ( Sole, rosso) (245). Qui è chiaro che i pianeti e i metalli corrispondono alle fasi di sfittimento dell'ombra (dal nero al grigio e poi all'argenteo) e di progressiva significazione (arancione, color ruggine e poi rosso).

His reference (245) is to Antoine Joseph Pernety and is Fables. 1:73 which is Les Fables égyptiennes et grecques dévoilées et réduites au même principe, avec une explication des hiéroglyphes et de la guerre de Troye published in 1758 ev.

However, the oldest illustrated arrangement so far discovered is given in the Arabic text Ghayat al-hakim dating from c.1050 ev where the named spheres are in the order Moon-Mercury-Venus-Sun-Mars-Jupiter-Saturn,

This older order is used both in the Longusian tradition and our Hebdomian Way, with Evola writing that it is mentioned by Stephanus Alexandreus (Στέφανος Αλεξανδρεύς) and is a Greco-Roman (Hellenic) tradition:

"In the ancient Hellenistic tradition transmitted by Stephanos, the order varies again."

Nell'antica tradizione ellenistica, riportata da Stefano (247), l'ordine è diverso. Le regioni sideree, associate agli dèi e alle metallità sacre a ciascuno di essi, hanno il seguente ordine: Saturno (Piombo, ♂), Giove (Bronzo, ♀), Marte (Ferro, ♂), Sole (Oro, ☽), Venere (Rame, ♀), Mercurio (♀), Luna (Argento, ☽). Questa disposizione però si può ricondurre ad una simmetria rispetto al Sole che sta al centro, con sopra Saturno, Giove e Marte, triade di divinità maschili, e sotto, in simmetria, Venere, Mercurio e Luna triade di divinità femminili (il Mercurio come «Donna dei Filosofi»): come nel grafico riportato a p. 173. L'itinerario spirituale allora sarebbe, per così dire, a spirale: partendo da un dio maschio superiore, si discenderebbe per ricongiungersi con la divinità femminile sim-

In the ancient Hellenistic tradition transmitted by Stephanos,<sup>6</sup> the order varies again. The sidereal regions, associated with the gods and sacred metals, have the following order: Saturn (Lead, ♂), Jupiter (Bronze, ♀), Mars (Iron, ♂), Sun (Gold, ☽), Venus (Copper, ♀), Mercury (♀), Moon (Silver, ☽). This disposition can be turned around, however, according to a symmetry that has the Sun in the center with Saturn, Mars, and Jupiter above it as a triad of masculine divinities, with Venus, Mercury, and Moon below it in a triad of feminine deities (Mercury being the "Lady of the Philosophers"), as in the diagram reproduced below. The spiritual itinerary, so to speak, then proceeds in a spiral: starting from a higher masculine god, it descends to join the symmetrical feminine divinity, then rises again and arrives finally at the center occupied by the Sun. The rising and falling movement that unites the symmetrical pairs corresponds, thus, to the successive sublimations and precipitations also circulating within the enclosed athanor: a descent to the "Infernal," where each "Arsenic" encounters a Water with which by dissolution, recombination, and resurrection, prepares it to be converted into a metal each time closer to the Gold.

Evola's reference - #6 in the English translation, 247 in the Italian edition - is to Berthelot's introduction to Collection Des Anciens Alchimistes Grecques (1887) {8} which takes us to texts by Stephanus such as those published in Julius L.

II: Corpus Hermeticum

§ Evola wrote:

The Emerald Tablet's "Telesma, Father of all things" is complemented by the redoubtable revelation of the Corpus Hermeticum: "Thou art all in all, composed of all powers." 13, 2

Anche circa il «principio di immanenza» i testi sono esplicativi: al già citato «Il Telesma il Padre di tutte le cose, è qui» della Tabula Smaragdina, fa riscontro la temibile rivelazione del Corpus Hermeticum (76): «Sei tutto in tutto, composto di tutti i poteri». Morieno, rispondendo al Re Kalid,

However, Myatt {7} translates that Hermetic 'revelation' from tractate XIII, v.2 as follows:

"Those begotten of theos are other than theos: young but entirely whole, mixion of all abilities."

τὸ πᾶν ἐν παντί ἐκ πασῶν δυνάμεων συνεστώς

In his commentary Myatt writes:

entirely whole. τὸ πᾶν ἐν παντί. A literal translation - "the all in all" - does not in its blandness (and the fact that "all in all" is a colloquialism) convey the meaning of the Greek, which considering what follows is suggestive of "entirely whole."

mixion of all abilities. ἐκ πασῶν δυνάμεων συνεστώς. Mixion - a variant spelling of mixtion, meaning melded, compounded, combined, composed of - is most suitable for συνεστώς given the metaphysical matters discussed.

In regard to δύναμις as referring here to abilities, qv. Myatt's comment on ἀνακαθαιρό μενος ταῖς τοῦ θεοῦ δυνάμεσιν in v.8 of this tractate which he translates as "having refinement through the Cræfts of theos" writing in his commentary:

Cræft - the older spelling, meaning, and pronunciation of craft - is, when so spelled, appropriate in reference to the use of δύναμις in this tractate, implying as it does, in an exoteric context, what the terms strength/power/force denote, while implying in an esoteric context (as often in this tractate) a particular Arte, the application of particular abilities, skills, and knowledge, especially abilities, skills, and knowledge learned in the traditional manner from a master or from a mistress of the Arte or Arts in question. In this esoteric sense, theos is the Master Craftsman, with Palingenesis being a Cræft, an Arte, that can be taught and learned. A Cræft is thus - for an individual - an ability, a capability, while it can also be, in respect of others, influential.

Thus, in this and other tractates the context can suggest alternatives such as 'influence' - qv. v. 9 in respect of the Alastoras, and tractate III:3 - or 'capability', qv. XI:3 and XII:20.

The word cræft also has the advantage of implying the plural, such as in the expression "the Cræft of theos."

This hermetic distinction between esoteric and exoteric meaning runs through Myatt's translations of the Corpus Hermeticum and distinguishes them from all other translations, including those used by Evola. {9}

Hermeticism: A New Insight

The distinction between Myatt's translations and others is particularly apparent in tractate XIII, perhaps the most hermetic and enigmatic tractate, with Myatt's extensive commentary providing a new insight into the text and, together with his commentaries on other tractates, new and important insights into hermeticism in general. A few examples from tractate XIII will suffice to reveal how his understanding of hermeticism differs from that of others.

§ Myatt translates the beginning of tractate XIII as:

[1] When, father, you in the Exoterica conversed about divinity your language was enigmatic and obscure. There was, from you, no disclosure; instead, you said no one can be rescued before the Palingenesis. Now, following our discussion as we were passing over the mountain I became your supplicant, inquiring into learning the discourse on Palingenesis since that, out of all of them, is the only one unknown to me, with you saying it would be imparted to me when I became separated from the world.

Thus I prepared myself, distancing my ethos from the treachery in the world. Therefore - by explaining it either aloud or in secret - rectify my insufficiencies since you said you would impart Palingenesis to me.

Trismegistus, I am unknowing of what source a mortal is begotten and from what sown.

[2] My son, noetic sapientia is in silence, with the sowing the genuinely noble.

Father, that is completely impenetrable. So, of whom dispersed?

Of, my son, the desire of theos.

Father, of what kind then the begotten? For I do not share in such a quidditas and such a perceiveration.

Those begotten of theos are other than theos: young but entirely whole, mixion of all abilities.

Father, you speak enigmatically to me, not in the language of a teacher to a pupil.

My son, this emanation is not taught; rather, it is presenced by and when the theos desires.

[3] Father, while you speak of what is impractical and forced, I on my part seek what is straightforward. Was I produced as a foreign son of the paternal emanation? Do not repine me, father: I am a rightful son. Relate - plainly - the way of palingenesis.

My son, what is there to say? All that can be told is this: I saw an unshaped vista, brought-into-being through the generosity of theos, of me setting forth to a deathless body, and now I am not that before because engendered by perceiveration.

This matter is not taught: not through that shaped part through which is seeing. Thus and for me there is no concern for the initial mixturous form. It is not as if I am biochrome and have tactility and definity: I am a stranger to them. You, my son, now observe me with your eyes and directly see my physicality and perceptible form. And yet, my son, I am now not understandable with those eyes.

[4] Father, you have stung the heart, causing no minor distraction, for I cannot now perceive myself.

Would that you, my son, would - while not asleep - go beyond yourself as those who sleepfully dream.

Inform me also of this: who is the essentiator of the Palingenesis?

Through the desire of theos: The Mortal One, child of theos.

2 Ὡς τέκνον, σοφία νοερὰ ἐν σιγῇ καὶ ἡ σπορὰ τὸ ἀληθινὸν ἄγαθόν. Τίνος σπείραντος, ὡς πάτερ; τὸ γὰρ σύνολον ἀπορῶ. Τοῦ θελήματος τοῦ θεοῦ, ὡς τέκνον. Καὶ ποταπὸς ὁ γεννώμενος, ὡς πάτερ; ἄμιλος γὰρ τῆς ἐν ἐμοὶ οὐσίας [καὶ τῆς νοητῆς]. Ἀλλος ἔσται ὁ γεννώμενος νος θεοῦ θεὸς παῖς, τὸ πᾶν ἐν παντί, ἐκ πασῶν δυνάμεων συνεστώς. Αἴνιγμά μοι λέγεις, ὡς πάτερ, καὶ οὐχ ὡς πατὴρ υἱῷ διαλέγη. Τοῦτο τὸ γένος, ὡς τέκνον, οὐ διδάσκεται, ἀλλ' ὅταν θέλῃ, ὑπὸ τοῦ θεοῦ ἀναμιμήσκεται.

3 Ἄδύνατά μοι λέγεις, ὡς πάτερ, καὶ βεβιασμένα· ὅθεν πρὸς ταῦτα ὄρθως ἀντειπεῖν θέλω· ἀλλότριος υἱὸς πέφυκα τοῦ πατρικοῦ γένους· μὴ φθόνει μοι, πάτερ· γνήσιος υἱός είμι· διάφρασόν μοι τῆς παλιγγενεσίας τὸν τρόπον. Τί εἶπα, ὡς τέκνον; οὐκ ἔχω λέγειν, πλὴν τοῦτο· ὄρῶν τι ἐν ἐμοὶ ἀπλαστὸν θέαν γεγενημένην ἐξ ἐλέου θεοῦ, καὶ ἐμαυτὸν ἔξελήλυθα εἰς ἀθάνατον σῶμα, καὶ είμι νῦν οὐχ ὁ πρίν, ἀλλ' ἐγεννήθην ἐν νῷ· τὸ πρᾶγμα τοῦτο οὐ διδάσκεται, οὐδὲ τῷ πλαστῷ τούτῳ στοιχείῳ, διὸ οὐ ἔστιν ίδειν· διὸ καὶ ἡμέληται μοι τὸ πρῶτον σύν θετον εἶδος· οὐκέτι κέχρωσμαι καὶ ἀφὴν ἔχω καὶ μέτρον, ἀλλότριος δὲ τούτων είμι. νῦν ὄρᾶς με, ὡς τέκνον, ὄφθαλμοις μοῖς, ὃ τι δέ είμι οὐ κατανοεῖς ἀτενίζων σώματι καὶ ὄράσει. οὐκ ὄφθαλμοῖς τούτοις θεωροῦμαι νῦν, ὡς τέκνον.

4 Εἰς μανίαν με οὐκ ὄλιγην καὶ οἴστρησιν φρενῶν ἐνέσεισας, ὡς πάτερ· ἐμαυτὸν γὰρ νῦν οὐχ ὄρω. Εἴθε, ὡς τέκνον, καὶ σὺ σεαυτὸν διεξελήλυθας, ὡς οἱ ἐν ὑπνῷ ὄντες ροπολούμενοι χωρὶς ὑπνου. Λέγε μοι καὶ τοῦτο· τίς ἔστι γενεσιουργὸς τῆς παλιγγενεσίας; Ο τοῦ θεοῦ παῖς, ἄνθρωπος εἶς, θελήματι θεοῦ.

In regard to his use of the term Exoterica in v.1, Myatt writes in his commentary:

in the Exoterica. Ἐν τοῖς γενικοῖς. Since the term γενικῶν λόγων occurs in tractate X it is reasonable to assume that γενικός here refers to the same thing although the meaning of the term is moot given that no details are provided in this tractate nor in tractate X, nor in Stobaeus (Excerpts, III, 1 and VI, 1) where the terms also occurs. While most translators have assumed that it refers to 'generic' things or 'generalities' and thus (by adding λόγοι) have opted for an expression such as 'General Discourses', and given that a transliteration - such as genikois or genikoi - is awkward, I have in respect of the γενικοὶ opted for exoterica (from the Latin via the Greek τὰ ἔξωτερικά) with the meaning of "exoteric treatises designed for or suitable to the generality of disciples or students," with the plausible suggestion thus being that there are exoteric Hermetic treatises and esoteric Hermetic treatises, with Reitzenstein describing these other treatises as διεξοδικοί λόγοι (R.A. Reitzenstein. Poimandres. Teubner, Leipzig. 1904. p.118) a distinction he also mentioned in his later work Die Hellenistischen Mysterien Religionen.

In regard to his translation of the last line of v.3, Ο τοῦ θεοῦ παῖς, ἄνθρωπος εἶς, θελήματι θεοῦ as "Through the desire of theos: The Mortal One, child of theos" Myatt writes in his commentary:

The Mortal One, child of theos. Ο τοῦ θεοῦ παῖς, ἄνθρωπος εἶς, θελήματι θεοῦ. In respect of ἄνθρωπος εἶς, literally, Essentialist Mortal. That is, the primatial, or 'archetypal', human being. In respect of Ο τοῦ θεοῦ παῖς, cf. v. 2: τοῦ θελήματος τοῦ θεοῦ...ὁ γεννώμενος νος θεοῦ θεὸς παῖς, with παῖς not restricted to 'son' but implying the child - and hence the children, the youthful - of the theos, with the conventional translation here of 'son of god' imposing a particular meaning on the text and thus inviting as it may unwarranted comparisons with aspects of Christian theology.

§ In regard to his translation of v.4 he goes into even more detail:

Father, you have stung the heart, plunging me into no minor distraction, for I cannot now perceive myself.
Εἰς μανίαν με οὐκ ὄλιγην καὶ οἴστρησιν φρενῶν ἐνέσεισας, ὡς πάτερ· ἐμαυτὸν γὰρ νῦν οὐχ ὄρω.

My translation is quite different from previous ones - such as Copenhaver's "you have driven me quite mad, father, and you have deranged my heart. Now I do not see myself" - for the following reasons.

i) Does μανία, in the context of this particular tractate, equate to what the English terms 'mania' and 'madness' now denote, as for example - in the case of mania - in 'obsessive need or enthusiasm', 'mood disorder', and - in the case of madness - 'mental illness', psychosis, lack of restraint, uncontrollable fury, uncontrollable mental turmoil, or even in the colloquial sense of 'cool' or quirkily interesting?

It is my considered opinion that it does not, but rather denotes what is suggested by Acts 26:24-25 especially given the use there of μαίνομαι, Ταῦτα δὲ αὐτοῦ ἀπολογουμένου ὁ Φῆστος μεγάλη τῇ φωνῇ φησίν Μαίνη, Παῦλε· τὰ πολλά σε γράμματα εἰς μανίαν περιτρέπει. ὁ δὲ Παῦλος Οὐ μαίνομαι, φησίν, κράτιστε Φῆστε, ἀλλὰ ἀληθείας καὶ σωφροσύνης ὥρματα ἀποφθέγγομαι.

Speaking up for himself, Festus, in a very loud voice, said: "Paul, you are distracted. Your extensive learning has brought you to distraction." But Paul replied: "Noble Festus, I am not beside myself for the words I have spoken are restrained and truthful."

ii) In respect of οἴστρησιν I am rather reminded of the usage of οἴστρημα in Oedipus Tyrannus, 1318, οἵμοι μάλ’ αὖθις: οἶον εἰσέδυ μ’ ἄμα κέντρων τε τῶνδ’ οἴστρημα καὶ μνήμη κακῶν

as do the stings of those goads, and the recalling of those troubles, pierce me where the transitive senses of goad include "to cause annoyance or discomfort; to spur someone on, or 'to sting' or to prod someone to provoke them into responding."

Thus, with φρήν taken as a metaphor for the heart, one has the contextually apposite stung the heart, rather than completely out of context phrases such as "mind frenzy" or "mad".

iii) ἔμαυτὸν γὰρ νῦν οὐχ ὄρῳ. Not a literal 'cannot see' but rather 'cannot comprehend who or what I - as a being - am,' as a consequence of what Hermes has just said about his own being. Hence, I cannot now perceive myself.

go beyond. In respect of διεξελήλυθας, not here implying to "pass through", or "come out" (of yourself) but "go - or pass - beyond" (yourself) as those sleepfully dreaming often in their dreams travel far beyond where they are sleeping.

essentiator. The entity, person, or divinity, who essentiates; that is, who is the genesis of, who is the essence of, and who gives being to - who 'authors' and who fashions - the Palingenesis. Which 16th century English word expresses the meaning here of the Greek term γενεσιουργός. Cf. δημιουργός - 'artisan' - in Poemandres 24.

The Mortal One, child of theos. Ό τοῦ θεοῦ παῖς, ἄνθρωπος εἷς, θελήματι θεοῦ. In respect of ἄνθρωπος εἷς, literally, Essentialist Mortal. That is, the primordial, or 'archetypal', human being. In respect of Ό τοῦ θεοῦ παῖς, cf. v. 2: τοῦ θελήματος τοῦ θεοῦ...ὁ γεννώμε νος θεοῦ θεὸς παῖς, with παῖς not restricted to 'son' but implying the child - and hence the children, the youthful - of the theos, with the conventional translation here of 'son of god' imposing a particular meaning on the text and thus inviting as it may unwarranted comparisons with aspects of Christian theology.

Conclusion

It is clear from Evola's La Tradizione Ermetica and especially Myatt's translation of and learned commentary on tractates of the Corpus Hermeticum that ancient hermeticism has been somewhat misunderstood in modern times especially by Occultists who not only have ignored the Hellenic hebdomad - and the Septenary system of both Longusian esotericism and our Hebdonian Way - in favour of the distorted and much later Kabbalistic ten-fold Ozt Chim, but who also have accepted a Christianized version of hermeticism.

Appendix

A Guide To The Hebdonian Way

The Hebdonian Way is a modern hermetic ἐπιστήμη (épistémé) - that is, a praxis with an associated esotericism - which embodies the hermetic quest by an individual for Lapis Philosophicus understood as the attainment of wisdom. {4}

The term Hebdonian is from the Greek ἔβδομάς (and thus the Latin hebdomad) which word occurs in the Greek text of the Corpus Hermeticum, especially the Ποιμάνδρης (Poemander/Pymander) tractate.

The hermetic quest was described in terms of a journey, the progression, of seven stages: from the first, lower, sphere to the seventh, higher, sphere in the Ποιμάνδρης (Poemander/Pymander/Poemandres) tractate of the Corpus Hermeticum, written in Hellenistic Greek, and which dates from between c. 100 and 230 ev.

καὶ οὕτως ὄρμᾶ λοιπὸν ἄνω διὰ τῆς ἀρμονίας, καὶ τῇ πρώτῃ ζώνῃ δίδωσι τὴν αὐξητικὴν ἐνέργειαν καὶ τὴν μειωτικὴν, καὶ τῇ δευτέρᾳ τὴν μηχανὴν τῶν κακῶν, δόλον ἀνενέργητον, καὶ τῇ τρίτῃ τὴν ἐπιθυμητικὴν ἀπάτην ἀνενέργητον, καὶ τῇ τετάρτῃ τὴν ἀρχοντικὴν προφανίαν ἀπλεονέκτητον, καὶ τῇ πέμπτῃ τὸ θράσος τὸ ἀνόσιον καὶ τῆς τόλμης τὴν προπέτειαν, καὶ τῇ ἕκτῃ τὰς ἀφορμὰς τὰς κακὰς τοῦ πλούτου ἀνενεργήτους, καὶ τῇ ἔβδομῃ ζώνῃ τὸ ἐνεδρεῦον ψεῦδος.

"Thus does the mortal hasten through the harmonious structure, offering up, in the first realm, that vigour which grows and which fades, and - in the second one - those dishonourable machinations, no longer functioning. In the third, that eagerness which deceives, no longer functioning; in the fourth, the arrogance of command, no longer insatiable; in the fifth, profane insolence and reckless haste; in the sixth, the bad inclinations occasioned by riches, no longer functioning; and in the seventh realm, the lies that lie in wait."

Poemandres, v. 25, translated by D. Myatt {7}

In the Hebdomian Way the seven stages are seven spheres anciently named and in the sequence Moon, Mercury, Venus, Sun, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, with each sphere associated with a pathei-mathos, πάθει μάθος, where by pathei-mathos in the context of the Hebdomian Way is meant a personal learning from or a personal discovery due to a particular and practical experience.

Thus the quest for Lapis Philosophicus involves seven practical learning experiences one of which, associated with the sphere of the Moon, can involve the study and use of Myatt's Star Game {5} since the Star Game is a purely noetic and esoteric representation and experiencing of the Hebdomad and the hermetic quest, sans denotata and thus takes the individual beyond the need for both a dialectic of opposites and the exegesis of the written word as for example manifest in the tractates of the Corpus Hermeticum and their varying interpretations/translations.

The seven practical tasks relate to the human traits described in v.25 of the Poemandres tractate, which traits in modern terms are:

- 1. That vigour - enthusiasm - which grows and which fades.
- 2. Those dishonourable machinations.
- 3. That eagerness which deceives.
- 4. The arrogance of authority over others.
- 5. Profane insolence and reckless haste.
- 6. The bad inclinations occasioned by a comfortable life-style.
- 7. The lies that lie in wait.

The Seven Tasks

The tasks which follow have been found by experience to be effective in overcoming the above human traits through pathei-mathos. Most of the tasks involve some physical effort, with several also involving distancing one's self from the modern world and living in a more simple, and outdoor, way. The person undertaking these tasks is often referred to by the title Hebdomadary.

1. Moon Sphere.

Obtain copies of and read tractates I, III, IV, and XIII of The Corpus Hermeticum. The book containing the tractates should have a scholarly commentary and if a translation is required at least two different versions should be obtained, read and compared. {10} Afterwards, write an essay concerning your understanding of Hellenic Hermeticism. If an individual unversed in the classics has a desire to do so they can learn Hellenistic Greek and undertake their own translations. In understanding hermeticism the individual may find the study and use of the noetic Star Game helpful.

2. Mercury Sphere.

For men, (a) walking thirty-two miles, in rural terrain, in less than seven hours while carrying a rucksack weighing at least 30 pounds; (b) running 26 miles and 385 yards (a Marathon) in four and a half hours; (c) cycling two hundred or more miles in twelve hours.

For women, (a) walking twenty-seven miles in under seven hours while carrying a rucksack weighing at least 15 pounds; (b) running 26 miles and 385 yards (a Marathon) in five hours; (c) cycling one hundred and seventy miles in twelve hours.

Those who, before beginning their quest have already reached such standards should set themselves greater physical challenges and achieve them.

3. Venus Sphere.

With an existing partner, or after finding a suitable partner willing to undertake the task with you, find a hill or mountain in an isolated area - or a desert area miles from any human habitation - which affords an unobstructed night-time view of the stars and wild-camp there for at least three days and nights.

4. Sun Sphere.

A living alone in an wilderness area, near water suitable for drinking, for a three month period taking with you all that is required in a rucksack which you carry on your own back. You can either (i) build your own shelter from local materials and find your own food by hunting, fishing, and gathering, or (ii) take a tent and sleeping bag and on a monthly basis purchase and take back to your site such food supplies as may be needed from a locality situated at a suitable walking distance, with around 10 miles being suggested.

During the task you should maintain your isolation and have no means of communication with the outside world, use only candles (in a lantern) for illumination, have no means of measuring the passing of time (such as a watch) and no means of reproducing music or any other form of entertainment.

The Hebdomadary should keep a handwritten journal to record their musings.

5. Mars Sphere.

Write a full length novel of whatever genre, two of whose characters should be based on or inspired by either contemporary or historical persons you find interesting or inspiring or have an empathy for or a dislike of. The novel can also be based on your own life and/or experience and involve a locality and/or persons you know.

You should undertake the necessary contemporary or historical research in terms of plausible characters, scenarios, dialogue and locations, and if necessary read several published contemporary or historical novels to ascertain for yourself how various novelists structure their story, describe characters and events, and employ dialogue.

6. Jupiter Sphere.

The task begins at a full moon in Autumn and lasts seven days and nights and is to stay alone for that period in an isolated underground cavern where or near to where drinkable water flows, taking all that is required for the duration of the rite, including water if there is no drinkable water available, and food consisting of bread and cheese and, if you so desire, a supply of wine or beer. If a such an underground cavern cannot be found, then a suitable alternative is an isolated dark cave with, if necessary, its entrance suitably screened to avoid an ingress of light.

The only light is from candles (housed in a lantern) and no means of communication with the outside world, no timepiece, mechanical or otherwise, and no modern means of reproducing music nor any other means of personal entertainment should be brought.

The Hebdomadary should arrange for a trusted person or their partner or a family member to end their isolation after seven days.

7. Saturn Sphere.

The task involves the Hebdomadary - alone or with their partner - walking, in isolated terrain, a distance of at least 210 miles in 21 days carrying appropriate equipment for camping and supplies of food and water to last several days with their route enabling them to find suitable sources of drinking water when necessary. Supplies of food, if dehydrated or freeze-dried, should last as long as practicable, and then when necessary and possible food can be bought en route. The journey is to end at or near a site which the Hebdomadary finds they have an empathy with or if accompanied by their partner that they both have an empathy with. The Hebdomadary and/or their partner should keep a handwritten diary of their journey.

Footnotes

{1} The term 'Longusian tradition' - Longusian from the Latin for "long" - refers to (i) the esoteric philosophy and praxes of the pseudonymous Anton Long promulgated between 1976 and 2011, and (ii) developments and variations of that esoteric philosophy by its adherents, and which tradition is manifest under the appellations 'Order of Nine Angles', ONA, and O9A. For an overview of that esotericism, refer to https://archive.org/download/o9a-boundaries-philosophy-v5.pdf

{3} The Arabic title refers to a precious jewel - emerald - and recalls the meaning of Lapis in the alchemical term Lapis

Philosophicus, qv. footnote {4}. Furthermore, Zumurrud is a female character in two of the stories from the Persian/Arabic tales known in the West as The Thousand And One Nights. She is from Samarkand with her full name being "emerald from Samarkand", زمرد سمرقندی

{4} Lapis Philosophicus refers to that which is sought by means of an individual hermetic (esoteric, alchemical) quest: which is Wisdom, where by Wisdom is meant a balanced, rational, personal judgement and a particular knowledge of a paganus kind concerning living beings, human nature, Nature, the Cosmic Order (κόσμος) and our connexion to such manifestations of the μονάς.

As a term Lapis Philosophicus means the "jewel of the alchemist", since the term Philosophicus means an alchemist and not, as is commonly said, a philosopher, just as lapis (qv. λίθος τῶν σοφῶν) when used in Latin alchemical texts means "jewel" and not "stone".

For Hermetic tradition relates that λίθος as a jewel, or precious stone, was attested by Herodotus, who in The Histories, Book II, 44, wrote, in reference to "the sacred Temple of Heracles", ἡ δὲ σμαράγδου λίθου λάμποντος τὰς νύκτας μέγαθος.

It was possibly used in the same way by Aristotle who wrote, in reference to the Nine Archons, ἀναγράψαντες δὲ τοὺς νόμους εἰς τοὺς κύρβεις ἔστησαν ἐν τῇ στοᾷ τῇ βασιλείᾳ καὶ ὥμοσαν χρήσεσθαι πάντες. οἱ δ' ἔννεα ἄρχοντες ὀμνύντες πρὸς τῷ λίθῳ κατεφάτιζον ἀνδριάντα χρυσοῦν, ἐάν τινα παραβῶσι τῶν νόμων: ὅθεν ἔτι καὶ νῦν οὕτως ὀμνύουσι. Athenian Constitution, 7.1

Also, as noted in English-Greek Dictionary: A Vocabulary of the Attic Language by S. C. Woodhouse, published by Routledge & Kegan Paul in 1910, the term λίθος describes a jewel, as in Plato:

ῶν καὶ τὰ ἐνθάδε λιθίδια εἶναι ταῦτα τὰ ἀγαπώμενα μόρια, σάρδιά τε καὶ ίάσπιδας καὶ σμαράγδους καὶ πάντα τὰ τοιαῦτα: ἐκεῖ δὲ οὐδὲν ὅτι οὐ τοιοῦτον εἶναι καὶ ἔτι τούτων καλλίω. Phaedo 110 δ-ε

A Review of Myatt's The Divine Pymander

In 2013 David Myatt published his complete translation of and commentary on the Pymander section of the Corpus Hermeticum - 'The Divine Pymander' {1}.

The Divine Pymander is one of the standard Hermetic and Gnostic texts, outlining as it does Hermetic philosophy and, in Mead's 1906 translation, has been used by the Theosophical Society and occult groups such as The Hermetic Order of The Golden Dawn, who weaved part of it into an occult ritual. The text was also used, again in translation, by the British occultist Aleister Crowley, as part of a conjuration involving 'the holy guardian angel'.

Myatt's translation differs in almost every respect from the other translations available, the most scholarly of which is probably that of Copenhaver published in 1992 {2}. One of the obvious differences is Myatt's use, in his translation, of particular transliterations, especially his use of 'theos' instead of 'god', logos instead of 'Word', and 'physis' instead of 'nature', the later of which is an important principle in Myatt's own and somewhat gnostic philosophy of pathei-mathos. Another difference is his translation of certain Greek terms, translations which he himself in his Introduction describes as idiosyncratic, although I would go so far as to say they are iconoclastic. For instance, he translates 'agios' not as the conventional 'holy' but as 'numinous', explaining his reasons in a long note in his commentary, writing that,

"Correctly understood, numinous is the unity beyond our perception of its two apparent aspects; aspects expressed by the Greek usage of ἄγιος which could be understood in a good (light) way as 'sacred', revered, of astonishing beauty; and in a bad (dark) way as redolent of the gods/wyrd/the fates/morai in these sense of the retributive or (more often) their balancing power/powers and thus giving rise to mortal 'awe' since such a restoration of the natural balance often involved or required the death (and sometimes the 'sacrifice') of mortals. It is the numinous - in its apparent duality, and as a manifestation of a restoration of the natural, divine, balance - which is evident in much of Greek tragedy, from the Agamemnon of Aeschylus (and the Orestia in general) to the Antigone and the Oedipus Tyrannus of Sophocles."

Other differences include Myatt's use of obscure English words, such as artisements - all of which he explains in his commentary - and his coining of unusual and striking terms to translate an important Greek expression, such as 'quidditas of semblance' for what is usually translated (both by Mead and Copenhaver) as 'archetype of form', with Myatt writing in his commentary that,

"The transliteration 'archetype' here is, unfortunately, unsuitable, given what the term archetype now suggests and implies (vide Jungian psychology, for example) beyond what the Greek of the text means. Appropriate words or terms such as 'primal-pattern' or 'protoform' are awkward, clumsy. Hence quidditas (11th/12th century Latin), from whence came 'quiddity', a term originally from medieval scholasticism which was then used to mean the natural (primal) nature or form of some-thing, and thus hints at the original sense of ἀρχέτυπον."

A Greek Not Christian Text

All these differences give a decidedly different tone to the work. So much so that Myatt's translation comes across as a decidedly Greek, almost pagan, work about metaphysics in contrast to the other available translations which make it appear to be if not some sort of early Christian text then a text heavily influenced by and expressing Christian ideas. Part of this is down to what many will undoubtedly see as Myatt's controversial choice of English words, a choice which he often explains in his commentary as avoiding imposing "after nearly two thousand years of scriptural exegesis and preaching, various religious preconceptions on the text".

Two sets of quotations from four different translations should illustrate this. The first set is from the very end of the text.

The 17th century Everard translation:

Holy is God the Father of All Things.

Holy is God Whose Will is Performed and Accomplished by His Own Powers.

Holy is God, that Determineth to be Known, and is Known of His Own, or Those that are His.

Holy art Thou, that by Thy Word hast established all Things.

The 1906 Mead translation:

Holy are you, O God, the universals' Father.

Holy are you, O God, whose Will perfects itself by means of its own Powers.

Holy are you, O God, who willeth to be known and art known by your own.

Holy are you, who did you by Word make to consist the things that are.

The 1992 Copenhaver translation:

Holy is god, the father of all.

Holy is god, whose counsel is done by his own powers.

Holy is god, whom wishes to be known and is known by his own people.

Holy are you, who by the word have constituted all things that are.

The 2013 Myatt translation:

Agios o Theos, father of all beings.

Agios o Theos, whose purpose is accomplished by his own arts.

Agios o Theos, whose disposition is to be recognized and who is recognized by his own.

Agios es, you who by logos form all being.

It should be explained that Myatt in his commentary writes,

"I have given, as an intimation, a transliteration of the first part, as these are doxologies, similar to the Kyrie eleison [Κύριε ἐλέησον], and much (if not all) of their numinous/sacred/mystical/esoteric quality and meaning are lost when they are translated into plain - or into archaic, KJV type - English. Although they are best read/recited in the original Greek, the Latin preserves much of the numinosity of these and other such doxologies [...] ἄγιος ὁ approximates to 'Numinous is' [theos]."

Myatt then proceeds to give the Latin translation of the Greek.

The second set of quotations are from the middle of the text.

The 17th century Everard translation:

"Hear now the rest of that speech, thou so much desirest to hear. When that Period was fulfilled, the bond of all things was loosed and untied by the Will of God; for all living Creatures being Hermaphroditical, or Male and Female, were loosed and untied together with Man; and so the Males were apart by themselves and the Females likewise. And straightway God said to the Holy Word,. Increase in Increasing, and Multiply in Multitude all you my Creatures and Workmanships. And let Him that is endued with Mind, know Himself to be Immortal; and that the cause of Death is the Love of the Body"

The 1906 Mead translation:

"Now listen to the rest of the discourse which you dost long to hear. The period being ended, the bond that bound them all was loosened by God's Will. For all the animals being male-female, at the same time with Man were loosed apart; some became partly male, some in like fashion [partly] female. And straightway God spake by His Holy Word: Increase ye in increasing, and multiply in multitude, ye creatures and creations all; and man that hath Mind in him, let him learn to know that he himself is deathless, and that the cause of death is love."

The 1992 Copenhaver translation:

"Hear the rest, the word you yearn to hear. When the cycle was completed, the bond among all things was sundered by the counsel of god. All livings things, which had been androgynous, were sundered into two parts - humans along with them - and part of them became male, part likewise female. But god immediately spoke a holy speech: 'Increase in increasing and multiply in multitude, all you creatures and craftworks, and let him (who) is mindful recognize that he is immortal, that desire is the cause of death.'

The 2013 Myatt translation:

"Now listen to the rest of the explanation you asked to hear. When the cycle was fulfilled, the connexions between all things were, by the deliberations of theos, unfastened. Living beings - all male-and-female then - were, including humans, rent asunder thus bringing into being portions that were masculous with the others muliebral. Directly, then, theos spoke a numinous logos: propagate by propagation and spawn by spawning, all you creations and artisements, and let the perceiver have the knowledge of being deathless and of Eros as responsible for death."

The Septenary System

While Myatt's commentary is often dense and sometimes obscure, it is notable for two reasons.

First, its scholarly nature, for his quotations, in the commentary and in Greek or Latin and with his own translations, range from the Homeric Hymn to Demeter, to Sophocles, to Xenophon, to Cicero and the New Testament, and include what to most people will be obscure works from the 'fathers of the Christian church', including Maximus the Confessor, Irenaeus, and Cyril of Alexandria. Occasional gems are to be found, such as Myatt's translation from the Greek of a passage from the Discourses of Epictetus:

"Neither a tyrannos nor some Lord shall negate my intent; nor some crowd although I be just one; nor someone stronger although I be weaker, since such unhindrance is a gift, to everyone, from theos."

Second, and of interest to many, the commentary explains much about not only 'the septenary system' – the hebdromad – which forms an important part of the hermetic Pymander text, but also about the 'anados', the journey through the spheres to the final goal of immortality. There are esoteric gems aplenty here, and it is worth ploughing through the commentary just to find these. For example, in a comment on part 26 of the Pymander text, Myatt writes,

"[It is] easy to understand why some considered there were, or represented their understanding/insight by, 'nine' (seven plus two) fundamental cosmic emanations, or by nine realms or spheres [qv. the quote from Cicero in section 17] – the seven of the hebdromad, plus the one of the 'ogdoadic physis' mentioned here, plus the one (also mentioned here) of what is beyond even this 'ogdoadic physis'. However, as this text describes, there are seven realms or spheres – a seven-fold path to immortality, accessible to living mortals – and then two types of existence (not spheres) beyond these, accessible only after the mortals has journeyed along that path and then, having 'offered up' certain things along the way (their mortal ethos), 'handed over their body to its death'. Ontologically, therefore, the seven might somewhat simplistically be described as partaking of what is 'causal' (of what is mortal) and the two types of existence beyond the seven as partaking of – as being – 'acausal' (of what is immortal). Thus, Poemandres goes on to say, the former mortal – now immortal – moves on (from this first type of 'acausal existence') to become these forces (beyond the ogdoadic physis) to thus finally 'unite with theos': αὐτοὶ εἰς δυνάμεις ἔσται τοὺς παραδιδόσαι καὶ δυνάμεις γενόμενοι ἐν θεῷ γίνονται."

An Iconoclastic Work

Although already known as "a British iconoclast" {3} for his strange and past involvements and peregrinations, as well as known for his idiosyncratic translations of Sappho and Heraclitus, David Myatt's translation of and commentary on 'The Divine Pymander' will undoubtedly confirm that iconoclasm and that idiosyncrasy.

His translation is most decidedly iconoclastic, bringing as it does a new insight into the text, and breathing as it does new life into its hermeticism, thus making it far more accessible to, and understandable, by students of gnosticism, hermeticism, and the occult; and although – given Myatt's (not always deserved) reputation, and his past involvements and peregrinations – it will undoubtedly be ignored by the academic establishment, its appeal will be to such students and to others interested in the arcane. It also serves to compliment Myatt's own philosophy of patheimathos, elucidating as it does some of the more obscure points of Myatt's ontological speculations.

{2} Copenhaver, B. Hermetica. Cambridge University Press, 1992. There is a major issue with Copenhaver's book in that in his notes he gives not the actual Greek text (using the Greek character set) but transliterations (using the Latin character set) which is annoying for those who can read Greek. Myatt in his notes and commentary, and to his credit, eschews this 'populist', dumbing-down, approach, and – in accord with hundreds of years of scholarship – provides the Greek text.
